Paris continues to be very interested in the visit of the Prince of Wales and is finding it hard to realize that the programme for the Prince has been restricted to that drawn up by the Prince's French mentor, Prof. Escoffier of the School of Political Science, in which the only part Montmartre is figuring is the panorama view from the Sacre Coeur Cathedral. This is accompanied with visits to the Arc de Triomphe, the Pasteur Institute, Versailles, Fontainebeau Compiègne and Chantilly. Visits to the theatres are limited to the classic, with the Comedie Française carefully selecting modern pieces. The Prince's use of the name Earl of Chester as the moogito has earned him the nickname "chese kid" as Chester is known there only as the name of an English cheese.

Mrs. George Cornwallis West is nothing if not thorough, and although the wonderful "Shakespeare's England," which she is organizing at Earl's Court will not be opened until May she has her company already hard at work rehearsing. If that exhibition is ready when it is opened it will be a great feather in her cap, for no exhibition held in London has ever yet achieved that much. An amusing incident happened at the offices of "Sheakespeare's England" the other day, when the knights who are to enter the lists at the tourney came to be measured for their armor. Some of the sets of armor were already made, and the men tried on these first. Lord Crichton, who is evidently a "stock" size, got into his suit all right, and then proceeded to get out of it again. But when he tried to remove the helmet he found that he could not unlock it. He struggled furiously with it for some time, and several other men came to his aid, but no one could undo it, the fastenings being of such an intricate nature that it needed an authority on ancient armor to discover their secret. To add to his lordship's troubles he had an important appointment to keep and a train to catch, and for a few moments it looked as if he would have to drive to the station with his head incased in the helmet. Like the little boy who got his head in a saucepan and had to go to the hospital to have it taken off. Fortunately the King's armorer, Guy Laking, arrived on the scene just in time to save the situation, released his lordship from his prison, and enabled him to dash off in time to catch his train. Lord Crichton intends to study that helmet very carefully before he puts his head into it again.

It takes a man of Dr. Roland Grant's remarkable ability to present to a Canadian audience scenes and descriptions of their own wonderful country in a way to make them seem ever new and always interesting. In his lecture last evening, Dr. Grant threw upon his canvas scenes in the Canadian Rockies which ought to make every one who was present take for his motto, "See Canada First." Dr. Grant, who has been a

"Dr. Miles' Nervine Completely Cured Our Little Boy of Fits."

A family can suffer no greater affliction than to have a child subject to fits or epilepsy. Many a father or mother would give their all to restore such a child to health.

"I am heartily glad to tell you of our little boy who was completely cured of fits. He commenced having them at 10 years of age and had them for four years. I tried three doctors and one specialist but all of them said he could not be cured, but Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills cured him."

world-wide traveller, stated that for scenic magnificence some of these views were absolutely unrivalled. One in particular, which he threw upon the screen, was a view of Lake Agnes, one of the exquisite turquoise gems lying in a rock-bound cup a thousand feet above Lake Louise, which was pictured with the stupendous glacier of Mount Victoria in the background, and Castle Crags and the splendid dome of Mount Temple rising in the distance. Dr. Grant said of this that he challenged any man to point to a mountain scene in any part of the world combining in one broad panorama such a variety of nature's moods or such a riot of beauty and color. The lecturer did not confine himself to Canadian scenery alone, but led his auditors to the base of the great volcanic cones which lie to the south and showed them a number of most superb views of Baker, Rainier, Hood and Shasta, in some of which the camera had caught some marvelous cloud and atmospheric effects. From these scenes he carried his audience to sunny California and showed a long series of pictures of places where nature has been supplemented by art in producing the charming landscape effects for which that country is so well known. Among the pictures shown were a variety of miscellaneous subjects which included views of the Pacific Coast Indians, the forest resources of British Columbia, pictures illustrating the logging industry and many others. Dr. Grant described the beauty spots shown in a delightfully informal and entertaining talk, his happy personality and merry jests adding no little to the pleasure of the evening's entertainment.

Mrs. S. McClay will not receive tomorrow but will be at home as usual on the third Wednesday in May for the last time this season.

A LUMBERMAN'S CASE.

Ottawa, April 16.—British Columbia lumbermen for some time have been insisting on determining whether lumber is free or dutiable when dressed on one side only, but re-sawn to uniform width. Dimensions of lumber in dispute are two inches by six, two inches by eight, two inches by ten, two inches by twelve, and other sizes. According to the customs law an appeal can be made from rulings of the department to the Exchequer Court and a decision of that court is final. A case has been entered against the customs department and will come up for hearing some time during the present month. The decision will determine the question as to what interpretation the customs department will be compelled to act on in future.

Amelia Stiggins loves to paint; Her color schemes are weirdly quaint. Her technique manages somehow To make a man look like a cow. And as the evening's shadows creep You can't tell moonlight from a sheep; You have to take a second look To tell a roadway from a brook. Or in the sweetly pastoral scenes A peasant from a load of greens. But if you venture to complain It does not cause Amelia pain. Provided your remarks you start By reference to simple "art." But tears will gather in her eyes If you adversely criticize The scenes she has depicted there. If you say "ah!" with studious care.

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

Doctors Could Not Help Mrs. Templeton—Regained Health through Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Hooper, Nebraska.—"I am very glad to tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. For five years I suffered from female troubles so I was scarcely able to do my work. I took doctors' medicines and used local treatments but was not helped. I had such awful bearing down pains and my back was so weak I could hardly walk and could not ride. I often had to sit up nights to sleep and my friends thought I could not live long. At my request my husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I commenced to take it. By the time I had taken the seventh bottle my health had returned and I began doing my washing and was a well woman. At one time for three weeks I did all the work for eighteen boarders with no signs of my old trouble returning. Many have taken your medicine after seeing what it did for me. I would not take $1000 and be where I was. You have my permission to use my name if it will aid anyone."—Mrs. Susan Tux-FLETON, Hooper, Nebraska.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

RESERVED JUDGMENT IN THE RAHIM CASE

Court of Appeal Will Decide Later Whether Houssein Rahim Is to Be Deported.

At the conclusion of the argument of counsel in the appeal of the immigration authorities in the case of the Hindu, Houssein Rahim, the Appeal Court yesterday announced that it would reserve its judgment.

The case is an interesting one from a legal standpoint as Rahim entered the country as a tourist and on a trial secured an order from Mr. Justice Murphy entitling him to enter Canada as such. He did not come here direct from India, but from Honolulu where he is said to have acquired citizenship by a year and a half's residence. Since being admitted as a tourist he has opened a real estate office in Vancouver and given other indications of his intention to stay. For this reason the immigration authorities are appealing to have him deported.

Rahim is the same man who is under arrest on a charge of perjury in connection with the recent provincial election.

Mr. D. G. Macdonell, K. C., appeared for the immigration authorities in the appeal and Mr. George E. McCrossan for Rahim.
