Mr. H. H. Stevens Esq.
Vancouver City.

November 1912.

Dear Sir'

It is not becoming of a gentleman like you to speak ill of and to so deadly against a faithful and loyal British Subjects. To Tell the truth 'the supremacy of England generally depends on the brave soldiers of India' whom you curcastingly call ~~sm~~ dusky and unfit British Subjects. This narrowmindedness of yours indicated that you are no gentleman. The Holy Bible teaches us that all men are alike in the sight of God. You think yourself the wisest man in your estimate and that is why you look down upon these uneducated Hindoos' but you know nothing of the brilliant heads in India. Please ~~study~~ study the History of England a little and see what was the condition of the people whom you call white. Outward whiteness counts for nothing' a man should be white in the heart. Further you say that if you had your own way ~~yxx~~ these Hindoos would not be allowed to set their foot in British Columbia; but God is not so unjust as to let persons like you have a sway over the word "IF" If you want to leave a good name behind you' be kind and polite to the strangers. You being wise know it very well that the tyrant dies sooner or later' but the everlasting curse stays on him. We are sorry ourselves that the better class people of India have not come here. If these natives of India' who are at present here' are rude in their manners and customs it is not their fault' but that of the Government' which did not impart education to them. and every body knows that a man without education is a mere brute. Mr Stevens' one whose heel is never craked' does not know the pain of others and one therefore should put himself in the same situation before he can know it. In the end I earnestly beseech you to remove the false and absurd idea from your mind which you have formed about the faithful men of India' otherwise it will go very hard with you.

With best wishes

yours truly

wellwisher'
