

Laut, Agnes C.

1913

Am I My Brother's Keeper? A Study of British Columbia's Labour and Oriental Problems.
Toronto: Saturday Night Publishing Co.

Agnes C. Laut; Am I my Brother's Keeper 1913.

This was a series of articles out of Saturday night, reprinted because of demand. Intro notes the 1912 embassaries of local Hindus who were moving public opinion in Toronto.

5. notes that socialism isn't a parlor word in B.C.

6. claimed that the IWW was costing the province $1000/day in policing costs.

13. She notes that in a group of 2,000 strikers against the Canadian Northern there were 17 languages spoken.

15-6. notes that the B.C. militia dispersed a camp of 1500 strikers on the charge of vagrancy.

19. an IWW notes that her type were "scared of the Hindu for moral reasons"

20 notes a talk with "one of the first to arrange for and employ Hindu labour in the saw mills on the Pacific Coast". This he did because of the high cost of white organized labour. "They are not equal to the white man; but what was I to do? I was in dept."

She suggests that the importation of Hindus "might bring the same curse here as the South suffers from the Black?"

note xeroxed p 24: IWW supports Hindus/ sees a long list of subscriptions from Hindus at Cordoba st centre.

Mr. Pettipiece, B.C. Federationists agrees; they are equal as labour, but unequal as potential citizens. He also claims that the mill owners brought them here.

31-41 on the Hindu argues impracticality, child weddings, high Ottawa pressure for secrecy re Indian sedition. steamship and sawmill solicitation. Notes from a mill owner that Hindu labour contractors have iron clad control

37 at last census (1911) has 4-5,000,000 property. held collectively by the leaders of the community. "Investigator" (who must be Hopkinson) claims that one million was diverted to San Francisco aimed at Indian sedition, but that none got outside of sf.

43 . notes a change in the view of labour over the past five years wrt Chinese; sees it better to have Chinese labour here which can be controlled than Chinese products coming in from abroad.

she sees that the Chinese at this point will not affiliate with capital, but rather will unionize. She also notes that when the poll tax went to $500 wages for a domestic went from 15-20 to 35-45/month.

44. notes that Canada does not have anyone in government service who knows either Japanese or Chinese who is not of one of these ethnic groups.

The rise of Benevolent associations has been similar in nature to unions, as to protect their position these associations forbid members from taking on mere work for which they are not categorized, as per your cook would not cut the lawn.

notes that the Japanese are feared re the Chinese because of their arrogance.

FOREWORD

WAR and rumors of war had for months been coming out of the West. First it was the Asiatic question and then it was the Industrial Workers of the World, more familiarly known as the I.W.W. The Hindu had sent emissaries Eastward; turbaned, good-looking, smooth-talking gentlemen, who endeavored to convince the Easterner that they were being very badly used. These turbaned "sons of the East" haunted the newspaper offices throughout the Eastern Provinces; they addressed women's clubs, men's clubs, social teas, prayer meetings; indeed they were met in all manner of places where audiences were to be found and converts made. How well they succeeded will be remembered by the many expressions of opinion as to the unseemly manner in which these "British citizens" were being treated here in Canada.

Of the I.W.W. and their work in the unsettling of labor and their total disregard of law and order, the Easterner had a glimmer in the long drawn out battle between the mill owners and this same desperate, disorderly element in Lawrence, Mass., while upon occasions meagre reports leaked Eastward from British Columbia pertaining to the merry time the contractors in charge of new work on railway extension in that Province were having with the I.W.W. How serious the conditions were and are is borne out by the fact that time and again these contractors have been obliged to seek protection for both themselves and their men, and in many cases have been unable, owing to the attitude of these "won't works," to obtain the men necessary for the construction work at hand.

With the object of obtaining the facts at first hand in respect to these two great questions which are disturbing the country one politically and socially, the other industrially and socially—the Managing Editor of Saturday Night (Toronto) looked about for the proper person to send upon the mission, and finally picked upon a woman, Agnes C. Laut, the well-known author and trained investigator. Miss Laut scarcely needs an introduction. Writer of many important works, such as the "Conquest of the Great Northwest," "The Lords of the North," "Heralds of Empire," "Pathfinders of the West," etc., etc., her reputation as an author was international, while her newspaper training in the very country that she was to visit, her knowledge of local conditions, and above all her tenacity in getting to the bottom of a question when once she undertook the task, made her easily the first choice. At the time Miss Laut was at Panama looking over the ground for a series of articles. Upon her return she took train to Toronto. The whole matter was quickly arranged, and within a few hours she was on her way to the Pacific.

The questions which Miss Laut discusses in the pages of this booklet are two of the most important issues now before the Canadian people, while in the Asiatic problem the British people are vitally interested and will therefore do well to have an understanding of it from a Canadian point of view. These reasons, together with the fact that there has been a great demand for the articles which Saturday Night has been unable to fill, is the excuse, if excuse be needed, for their reproduction in the present form.

THE EDITOR.

"Saturday Night" Office,
Toronto, Canada, Jan., 1913.

AGNES C. LAUT

AUTHOR AND INVESTIGATOR

Whom SATURDAY NIGHT commissioned to undertake an investigation into the I. W. W. and the Asiatic Question in British Columbia.

Am I my Brother's Keeper?

What the Labor Agitation in British Columbia Means.

ARTICLE NO. I.

IF you want to be punctured so full of interrogation marks that all you think you know leaks out and all that's left is what you don't know—go to British Columbia, and go right now! It will do you more good than a post-graduate course in economics or a Burton Holmes travel lecture to all parts of the world; for you'll meet representatives of all parts of the world there; and if there's any economic theory, good or bad, glad or sad, sane or mad, that you don't meet right out face to face walking on two human legs in B. C., then it's because that theory hasn't yet been born.

The interesting thing is—you don't meet the theory as a theory, but as a fact walking on two legs, embodied in flesh and blood, it may be without a shirt, but still a human and fighting like the furies for what it calls "the salvation of the race." Socialism out there isn't a parlor fad, as it is in New York and London and Paris. They don't discuss the proletariat (I hate the word; we have no place for it in Canada); they don't discuss the proletariat over 40-cent cigars and $2.50 wine, as I have heard it drawled and drooled and drivelled about in New York. You meet it horny-handed and on the job, spouting the reconstruction of civilization from the rostrum of a soap box and in defiance of a policeman's bat; and don't you laugh at the soap box either. If it gets spilled, there's nothing to lose. If you get spilled with your fine spun load of civilization, there's going to be more than an upset apple cart with curses and wails—my supercilious Eastern critic!

"Fear? What should we fear to lose?" asked one of the most prominent and sincere of the B. C. labor leaders. "It's the pot-bellied bourgeois who are afraid to see civilization topple down! We're down now! He that is down need fear no fall. Let civilization crash! We'll build a better structure on the ruins. We have nothing to lose and everything to gain. We welcome the crumbling of the pile. The future is labor's and the fulness thereof. The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away! Let the crash come! It's your spineless halfway compromisers who have everything to fear!"

Doesn't sound like dilettante champagne lily-handed Socialism—does it? These remarks were made to me the day the Temple of Labor was opened in Vancouver—a $275,000 structure to house the executives of all the federated labor organizations, and a $275,000 structure testifies a kind of Socialism different from champagne and hot air.

Our Canadian idea of anarchy is of something "over the hills and far away," remote and underground, or something, like Ferrer's campaign in Spain, or else of boulevard poets in Paris shedding crocodile tears and sipping absinthe over the woes of the poor. What! that to us? We're not interested; but what if we find out there are 100,000 organized Anarchist workers in Canada in every walk of life both secret and open, not bomb-throwing, but with a creed, for which they are now fighting, more overturning than any bomb?

"Put 'em in jail!"

The jails of B. C. are filled to overflowing with I. W. W. men (Industrial Workers of the World), and every man who is sentenced to jail is paid $30 a month by his organization in compensation for the service to the common good. Send him to jail, and you give him free board and $30 a month and the glory of a martyr.

"The jails of B. C. are filled to overflowing with I. W. W. men, Industrial Workers of the World, and every man who is sentenced to jail is paid $30 a month by his organization in compensation for the service to the common good. Send him to jail, and you give him free board and $30 a month and the glory of a martyr."—AGNES C. LAUT.

"I will be pinched to-night," said an I. W. W. man to me. "They will run me in; but what does one man's loss matter in a fight for a great cause like this? There are a thousand ready to take my place. We can fill the jails to overflowing. We can cost the enemy thousands of dollars a day for jail food." (As a matter of fact, the organization was costing the province $1,000 a day in constables.) "No—we do not believe in violence. Our policy is stronger than that. It is passive, persistent resistance that will wear out all opposition and paralyze all industry. We aim by refusing to work to compel the capital of the world to come to our terms." Which explains why their enemies call them the I WON'T WORKS.

"We are going to cast off all oppression, peacefully if we may, but forcibly, if we must," declares the official Western organ of the I. W. W.'s.

"Run them out," you say.

"How are you going to know them to run them out when their workings are as active in secret as in the open? I was saying to one of the I. W. W. leaders that I did not think their organization would ever make headway in Quebec owing to the opposition of the Catholic Church to all secret orders. He burst out laughing.

"Why, I am a French Catholic of Quebec," he said; and he told me of an occurrence of which I had twice already heard, but which no one had explained. A boss in a freight yard had done something which the men disliked. Forthwith a very valuable car of freight was lost, deliberately lost in the yards for weeks and weeks.

"The tactics are applicable to the everyday struggle," explains and advocates the official organ in the West. "The tactics can be condensed into the following short rule":—(the rule is printed in solid caps)—"NEVER DO WHAT THE EMPLOYERS WANT YOU TO DO! Strike without notice! Leave tools where they happen to be! Sign no contracts unless forced to by economic pressure! Break those same contracts the first opportunity whenever that can aid fellow-workers! In cases of dispute, remain at the posts and turn out the product in such shape as to unfit it for consumption or sale!"

Or, to quote another official organ of the I. W. W.'s:—"Where the open strike is not advisable, there are the tactics known as sabotage. This is doing faulty work, having accidents with the machinery until for economy's sake the employers must give way. The more skilled a workman is the greater his knowledge of how to spoil work without being detected. Moulders can turn out casts full of bubbles, electricians make faulty insulations, carpenters putting in windows need only slacken the sash cord instead of stretching it."

Or, another advocate:—"The General Strike is not only the introduction of the Revolution, but it is the Social Revolution itself."

The workmen having mastered the theory might begin expropriation by taking possession of the warehouses and means of production, without the sanction of the dictators of the labor movement. . . . The farm workers might initiate the worker of the city and seize the possessions of the great land owners."

"Look here," I said to one I. W. W. leader—a man of absolute and fanatical sincerity—"you advocate fighting for a nine-hour day now, an eight-hour day to-morrow, a five-hour day the next thing, and so on till you reduce the hours of labor to three hours a day. Now, if that scheme will work in the big industrial world, why will it not work in your own home? Try it with your wife. She rises at six. She quits her work at nine. You hire help from nine to twelve, another shift from twelve to three, another from three to six, then a last worker to put the babies to bed. What wages would you need to run that kind of an establishment? If the thing isn't workable on a small scale, how do you expect it to work in a bigger sphere?"

"I don't," he said. "My wife is a partner. She goes through my pockets, and that is what capital and labor will be under the new order of things. Such short hours will transfer all capital to our side of the dividing line. It is perfectly true what you say—we are not striking for this or that. We are striking to transfer power from that class to this class, from capitalists to the proletariat," and he gave me a pamphlet with the headlines (solid caps again):—DON'T BE A HOG AND TRY TO DO ALL THE WORK IN ONE DAY! WORK SLOWLY.

Sounds as if Anarchy were a bit nearer than "over the hills and far away," doesn't it? It is a bit more real than the drivel of boulevard poets drinking absinthe.

"Pah! Hot air, rant and rot!" said a railroad capitalist of Eastern Canada when he heard that agitators were busy among his construction crews. "I have no more love for my contractors than the I. W. W.'s have! Let them fight and dog-eat-dog till they rot! Doesn't affect us. It's their funeral."

Within one month at the drop of the hat, at a word, somebody among the I. W. W.'s spoke, and 7,000 workers to a man went out on strike. I don't know what the strike cost the railroad in delay. It cost the province $1,000 a day in constables, not counting cost of court proceedings and the keep in jail of hundreds of men.

All this is in Canada, not "over the hills and far away," remote and underground, in Spain or Paris or some back of beyond. What's Anarchy to us? That is why if you want to be punctured so full of interrogation marks that all you think you know leaks out and all that's left is what you don't know—go to British Columbia, and go right now! You'll find all the contradictory economic problems you ever heard of in college, good or bad, glad or sad, sane or mad, walking about in flesh and blood on two legs. Laissez faire! What's that to us? Am I my brother's keeper? If you will look at a few facts for a minute or two you will soon decide that if you don't become your brother's keeper he will soon become yours, right here and now, in Canada, especially your shirtless, hungry brother. Run their songs:—

We want no condescending saviours
To rule us from a judgment hall;
We workers ask not for their favors;
Let us consult for all.
Then up with the masses and down with the classes,
Death to the traitors who money can buy!
Co-operation is the hope of the nation;
Strike for it now, or your liberties die!
You will eat by and by,
In that glorious land above the sky:
Work and Pray, live on hay,
You'll get pie in the sky when you die!
O, yes, we're the suckers, there's no doubt of that;
We live like dogs, and the boss, he gets fat!
God help his picture, when once we get wise;
He'll be the bum, and we'll be the swell guys!

What's all this to us? Let us take a look at facts!

Of the Western provinces, British Columbia has the largest area, the richest and most varied resources. Yet it has the smallest population. Why?

British Columbia pays the highest wages for skilled and unskilled labor in Canada. Yet labor agitation is the most acute in that province. Why? Here are several instances of that. The minimum wage for unskilled labor in B. C., whether "a shovel stiff" or orchard picker, is from $2 to $3 a day. The minimum wage in the other provinces is from $1.50 to $2. I met a railroad construction man doing piece, or station work, on a tunnel. After ten days of labor, when he had deducted his board, he had only 30 cents left. Not fifty miles away from the place where this man had worked I saw eleven Montenegrins, who formerly earned 50 cents a day in their own land, also doing piece, or station work, in a tunnel. The lowest wage earned by any of the eleven was $4 over and above board, and one fast worker was earning from $11 to $17 a day. Yet both gangs joined the strike. Any one who wants details of these two examples can get them by writing to Mr. Ed. Gilbert, of the I. W. W. Hall, Cordova Street, Vancouver, and Mr. Gwyer, the engineer for the railroad that advocated the dog-eat-dog policy for contractor and worker. Mr. Gwyer has nothing whatever to do with contractors and workers except to see that they live up to the railroad's specifications. Last year when the coal strike was investigated at Crow's Nest exactly similar discrepancies were reported, and the explanation of them may have some bearing on the present case. By good judgment of soil and rock and dynamite, the piece worker may so economise his shots and bring down big masses with small expenditure for powder and labor that $1 worth of labor and dynamite may bring down $50 of rock and gravel. In other cases, the condition of the ground may be such or the man's judgment so poor that $1,000 of dynamite may not accomplish $300 of work. Where the piece workers fail to clear expenses they are supposed to be paid the day rate, less board and outlay for clothes.

Construction work is to-day costing $25,000 a mile for plain grade where it used to cost only $8,000, and is now costing $125,000 a mile for the mountain sections. Of this total, the provinces guarantee bonds for over $30,000, the Federal Government for these difficult sections grants $12,000, and the railroads find the balance. We have a fashion of saying that the corporation pays for all this. It doesn't! The public pays first in stocks and bonds, last in freight to pay dividends on the stocks and interest on the bonds. Interest at 4 per cent. on cost of $25,000 means charges for freight and passengers up to $1,000 a mile. Interest on cost of $125,000 at 4 per cent. means charges of $5,000 a mile. This is where the vital concern of the public comes in.

Where do the higher wages go? I am not now stating matters of opinion but of facts. Take two little typical places—Yale and Hope, places normally of 40 to 100 population. The postmasters reported that the Austrians and Montenegrins sent a good portion of their wages home to wives and families. The other workers didn't. What did they do with the money? Was it put away in their bootlegs? I was told to go and ask the saloons. I did. Before the strike, a saloon was taking in $300 on ordinary days, $1,500 on holidays. I have no comment to make. Two saloons made practically the same report only in the other case the holiday total was $1,200. These workers have as much right to blow in $1,500 a day on cheap booze as a certain well known steel magnate in the United States has to come down periodically to New York and blow in $1,500 a day on champagne. The point is—and it is not a matter of opinion—both in the case of the worker and the magnate, it is the public and not an imaginary bogey figure called Capital that is paying the piper for both these fruit gambles and gambols. The point also is—neither the magnate nor the worker could succeed for one day without the approbation of the public. The point also is—the public is beginning to ask questions: how much are we going to stand in this little game of dog-eat-dog that comes so high? That is why the public is vitally interested to dollar, to a dime—the whole Canadian public.

B. C. spends annually many millions on imported foodstuffs, but eggs, cereals. If you figure up her total imported foodstuffs and divide that by her population, you will find that she is spending year $35 for each person in the province for imported foodstuffs. Why doesn't she raise that foodstuff at home? I have no comment to make. I state the fact and ask the question.

I suppose that it is also accepted as a matter of fact that every winter there is great destitution among the unemployed. In a province big as one and a third of Germany, with less population than one Germany's lesser cities, why are there any unemployed?

To go back to the fact of importing food and the unemployment. Stopping at a junction one night, I had supper with an English fruit rancher and his wife, who were giving up their ranch and going back to England. I asked why they were giving up. Didn't like the life? "Best life on earth, but I am a poor man and I can't afford it. My fruit harvest comes all at once. I must get help to pick it or it rots."

"But there are thousands of unemployed in this country."

"Yes, but when I pay more than $2 a day for unskilled labor it does not pay me to pick my fruit. I must ship it at a loss; and I am a poor man. I cannot afford to do that." And he gave me the figures.

As I might make a mistake in his figures, I am going to give you exact figures on a fruit farm which I have in New York. Laws have been passed compelling the use of barrels of a regulation size. They cost 38 cents. Freight on the barrels was 3 cents. At $2 a day, which is paid pickers, averaging 12 barrels to the day, it cost 16 cents a barrel for picking. The freight to the market is 27 cents. (In the West the freight is from 50 cents to a dollar). In all, it costs 84 cents to put a three bushel barrel of fruit on the market. Early apples sold in New York at only $1.25, which left a profit of 41 cents for a three bushel barrel. During the early season labor was very scarce. It could not be got under $2.50 a day. Now, I should like to pay unskilled labor $1 a minute if I could, because I am a worker myself and consider work again, Mr Average Canadian!

STRIKE!

The Construction Workers of the Canadian Northern having been goaded on to a point of desperation by the low wages, the outrageous prices charged for the necessities of life, and the unsanitary conditions which force the workers to sleep huddled together like rats, in places unfit for human habitation, where a window is considered a luxury and where stinking mud constitutes the floor, many workers falling prey to fever, epidemics, and receiving inexperienced attention when taken to the hovels known as hospitals, for which $1.00 per month is charged—have at last risen in Revolt. Seven Thousand Workers, solidly organized in the Industrial Workers of the World, are on strike, demanding a living wage and better conditions. All Workers are requested to stay away from the struggle and by so doing help their fellow workers to fight organized Capital.

All who disregard this notice will be considered traitors to and enemies of the Working Class. The following demands have been drawn up by the Workers:

That Nine Hours shall constitute a maximum day's work, and Three Dollars per day shall be the minimum day's wage for all Common Labor.

That all Tunnel Workers shall be considered underground workers and as such, Eight Hours shall be their Maximum day.

That the Board shall not exceed $5.25 per week, or 25 cents a meal.

That the Sanitary conditions of the Camps be looked into.

That Steam Shovel Crews remain as before, for a Nine Hour Day.

TUNNEL MEN.		MONTHLY LABOR.
Timber Framers	$4.50	Cooks up to 50 men.....	$ 90.00
Machine Men	4.00	Cooks up to 100 men.....	100.00
Heading Men	3.50	Cooks up to 150 men.....	110.00
Bench Men	3.25	Cooks up to 200 men.....	125.00
OUTSIDE MEN.		Second Cooks	75.00
Bridge Carpenters	$4.50	Bakers	80.00
Blacksmiths	4.00	Flunkies and Bull Cooks.	50.00
Steel Sharpeners	3.50	2 Horse Teamsters	50.00
Handy Men	3.50	4 Horse Teamsters	60.00
Drillers	3.25	6 Horse Teamsters	65.00
Right-of-way Men	3.25	8 Horse Teamsters	70.00

By order of Central Strike Committee, Local Union 327, I.W.W.

Send all funds to maintain Strikers to Thos. Whitehead, Sec.-Treas. I. U. No. 327, P.O. Box 35 Lytton, B.C.

The strike placard, of which this is a copy, greatly reduced, includes demands which were made only AFTER the strike was inaugurated on the Canadian Northern, and to which Agnes C. Laut refers in her article.

"All the trouble has been with what we call blanket stiff, floaters, drifters, the riff-raff, the flotsam and jetsam of the labor world," said the leader of the B. C. Federation to me.

"You mean outsiders and foreigners who come in?"

"I mean the very bottom dregs of labor. The I. W. W.'s have aimed to organize in the world of labor the same class that the Salvation Army go after in the religious world. They are what we call 'he-camps,' nearly all homeless and many shirtless."

In one aggregation of 2,000 strikers that I visited there were 17 different languages spoken.

In one group of twenty leaders there were only two native born Canadians.

Now, Mr. Average Canadian, look at these facts and chuck your comfortable self-complacency under the chin.

Canada's natural increase is from 75,000 to 100,000 a year.

Canada's foreign increase—immigration—is from 300,000 to 350,000 a year.

In twenty years the foreign factor will outbalance the native born—override and overbalance in the labor world and in the voting world.

"We are going to cast off that which oppresses us—peaceably if we may, but forcibly if we must," says the expropriation propaganda.

In less than twenty years the vote will turn the trick. Are you your brother's keeper, Mr. Complacent Average Canadian?

ARTICLE NO. II.

I SAID that in less than twenty years the vote of the foreign born will overbalance the vote of the native Canadian. If the foreign born is trained to the use and meaning of representative government—it will be all right; but how is he being trained? Just here, some more matters of fact instead of opinions.

A few seasons ago, the elections were coming on. It was in one of the Western provinces that has received the largest percentage of European immigration. In one city in that province, there reside 20,000 foreigners almost en bloc. The contest was going to be very close. Offices were opened in a certain main street block, which I can name if I am asked. Ordinarily and legally, it takes three years to transform a foreigner into a voting British subject. He must have resided in Canada three years before he can take out his papers. The process is really simple to a fault. The new-comer goes before a county judge with proof of residence and two Canadian witnesses. He must not be a criminal and he must be of age. That is all that is necessary to change a Pole or a Sicilian or a Slav into a free and independent Canadian citizen or British subject fully competent to apprehend that representative government implies duties and fitness as well as rights.

Listen! Take in exactly what it means! The contest was going to be close, very close; and a few of the party leaders could not bear to have those newcomers wait a long three years for their papers of naturalization. They got together in that block on Main street; they forged in the same hand, the same writing, the same manipulation the signatures of three hundred foreigners, who did not know in the least what they were doing, to applications for naturalization papers of three hundred foreigners who had not been three months in the country. I suppose the little matter of Canadian witnesses for proof of three years residence was as easily arranged as the signatures. Am I my brother's keeper? What's that to us? If forgery didn't matter, why should perjury?

Now get on a bit with the facts! They would be comical if they were not so tragically destructive of a square deal in government. The perpetrators of this fraud happened to be provincial and of a different stripe politically from the government at Ottawa. (Personally, I have my own ideas about the sort of stripe suitable for a case of this kind.) If you think the other party had been asleep while this little game was going on in the Blank block of the main street of Blank town, you do not know anything about the Grit vigilance that slumbers not in the sleeps where a cheat (by the other fellow) is concerned! Bit! Whoop! Waw! An Indian war yell wasn't in it! The papers with those three hundred forged signatures—names in the same writing of foreigners who could neither read, write, nor speak a word of English—were forthwith sent down to the Department of Justice in Ottawa; and everybody waited for the explosion. The bang didn't come! Those forgeries and perjuries slumber yet, secure in the Archives of the Department of Justice! Perhaps the new Minister of Justice found them when he came into office. I have heard it said that from $2 to $5 was paid to each foreigner for his part in the business—a fine introduction to Canadian citizenship; but of this, I do not know the truth; but the truth of the forgeries was what prevented the ban. Need one explain? No, it was not because the Tories came in. Ottawa and would not discipline Western Tories, for the Borden Government had not yet come to power. Nothing so decent as that! You can guess the rest! Soon as the provincial politicians heard what was doing they sent down a little message: If you go after us for this, we'll go after you for that; and maybe the pot had better not call the kettle black. I have not mentioned which political party did what. It does not seem to me that political stripes matter. The stripes most appropriate are those that go with a ball attached to the leg.

And then I think of another scene. It was out in the I. W. W. strike camps. There were 1,500 men of eighteen different nationalities, only three or four spoke English, hanging idly over the fence and round the tents. I was in the inner office talking to the leader—unkempt, yes, quite as unkempt as your imagination could paint him, but clean and self-educated though he was as he called himself, "only a shovel stiff," and absolutely sincere, and what is much more dangerous than all the bombs on earth—so fanatical that he was ready to go to jail or die for his convictions.

"Yes, I know," he said, "that we are not striking for what you would call anything special—any special grievance. We are striking to paraalyze every wheel of commerce, to tie up industry, to stop the mills, the railroads, the mines, the factories, by passive force to compel the expropriation of industry and to overturn the capitalistic system—"

"Hold on," I said, "it has taken civilization millions of years to come up from the status of the wild beast; and I admit there are still ravening wild beasts masquerading in civilized garb, that would make the creatures of the jungle look innocent. I see the evils! We all do; but instead of overturning, why don't you fight to remedy the ills and purge the evils? You have the ballot. It takes you only three years to get the vote in Canada. Why don't you use the ballot and vote things right, instead of smashing everything upside down over the edge of a precipice to build up a new system from the ruins?"

"Why don't we use the ballot?" he asked with contempt. "I'll tell you why—because politicians have corrupted it; because they are using it to cheat; because they have made of it a fraudulent thing to deprive men of self government."

Mr. Complacent Canadian—what was I to answer that man? He didn't stop with the period I have put to his speech. He went on and specified exact cases where the ballot, the Socialistic ballot, had been used in B. C. to enrich an inside ring and take from the public what was rightly their own.

That is why if you want to puncture all theories, especially the-be-good-and-you-will-be-happy kind, you had better go to B. C. And by the way, that particular forgery case was not perpetrated in B. C.

I did not answer that man. The B. C. Government did. It ran him and his 1,500 confreres out at the point of rifles. The I. W. W.'s had advocated and practised illegal passive force. The B. C. Government practised illegal active force. I say "illegal" because there is no use in fooling ourselves. If the blind lead the blind, there is a ditch at the end of their path. At the time these men were run out, they were on their own premises which they had rented. They had not begged. They had not stolen. They had not had one fight. They had their own police and had kept their men from drinking so that one hotel keeper came to me with the grievance that the strike was ruining him—his cellars were loaded with booze, and he could not sell a drink—this in a place which had formerly been taking in $300 a day. They had not committed any nuisance. They had uttered a lot of illegal fool-threats about "intentional accidents" and "doped" coffee for scabs; and to some slight extent, they had kept their followers in line under coercion; but two wrongs do not make a right. "Direct action" by the I. W. W.'s was no more legal than running a lot of men off their own premises by the B. C. Government. It was not for disorder, but vagrancy, "the run out" occurred. I had just left the hall when it happened; and as the long line of angry faced men set off down the track for a meal-less hundred mile tramp I could not but think of the prediction of a Pennsylvania millionaire, when the State used similar illegal violence against inciters to strike in the coal mines in the great struggle there some ten years ago. "We may grin over the trick now," he said, "but we'll grin on the other side of our mouths over this twenty years from now. We are teaching illegal violence and distrust of our country as to where local jurisdiction ends and federal jurisdiction begins. If they take to illegal violence, they are stronger than we. When I saw the Minister of Labor, Mr. Cruthers, he announced his Wrong at the top means riot at the bottom. It won't be unionism in spite of "twilight zone" of visiting every I.W.W. camp in the have to fight but revolution." Are we moving to the day so predicted West. I hope he has. If there were more ministers ready to tackle the job with their sleeves rolled up, there would be no problems of labor.

Late that night after the camp had been forcibly dispersed and job unsolved. constables had gone to bed, the owner of the hotel came and awakened me. The constables thought they had cleaned out every man. One! "You don't approve of our revolutionary propaganda. You acknowledged with the account books through a back window, hidden in ledge the hurt, the evils in present society. Yet you parlor reformers do woods, and now came to see me.

"Well," he said, "how about your boasted British justice? I would not do nothing if I were living in Canada. I would waken is a fine sample of your ballot government, a fine education in justice up the selfish indifference of the Canadian public. Am I my brother's 1,500 foreigners. You know this outrage is illegal. We have brokenkeeper? I would show them they have to be his keeper; or he will be law. The men who made the foolish threats are already in jail. theirs, and take good care of them, too." men who stood in the way of the construction engine were run over. "And then?" You know the patient sneer of the rip-roaring re- smashed. You know that. You also know that the compressed former, who thinks you are talking all "up in the air" for the purpose pipe that was blown up was not blown up by us, but by the contract of giving him an anaesthetic while you inter him. Just go to sleep and constables on guard there to make a case against us. How do you expect the pain, you know! Pray hard; and never mind an empty tum! us to restrain our individual camp followers from violence when A little hot air; and never mind playing fair! Look pious; and "eat pie kind of thing goes on—?" in the sky when you die," as their song expresses it!

"If I were you, I'd cut out the word violence," I said. "You are begin. I would fight fire with fire! I would go after your followers the whole show, you I. W. W.'s! Neither are the employers the begin. I would go after converts—out in the highways and byways with show! You two sections of society constitute just two-thirds of just as you go after converts—out in the highways and byways with show. The other third is the big public. The section that wins my gloves off. I would undermine you, just as you undermine civiliza- to have the public on its side; and the section that uses violence ation. The planks of your platform are grievances. I would remove every quibbles loses the public. Why don't you fight the thing in the courts plank of them till you had not a leg to stand on. Your great grievance is

The man laughed at the fool question. that you cannot under the present system own all the products of your labor. All right, I'd give every man jack of you a farm of his own, a "Where do you think we could get the money to fight in the courts grub stake in a coal mine, a timber limit where you would own every jot That at once brings up the question—are the I. W. W. strike leaders of your own labor, and starve if you didn't labor—then if you did not all over the world in it for the "graft?" I would like to think so. make good, I'd sweep you into the sea—scum not worth letting live! But would be a harmless frizzle then! Corruption will cure itself of I would not hit you with a policeman's club. That only makes converts own dry rot. No doubt, there are as many Judases among the mon- for you. You win by appealing to a grouch. I'd go after a stronger keepers of the I. W. W.'s as among other organizations of mix- motive. I'd appeal not to the motive for loot but for possession—a sit- humans, politicians and magnates, included; but from the very natu- fast spot on earth. When a man owns something, he becomes a 'vested of the thing, not much graft can have been worked in B. C. righter' and isn't going to scheme to overturn all ownership. You say out! The Western membership is about 100,000. The monthly fee you have 100,000 members on the Pacific Coast. You call yourselves time of strike is 50 cents. That gives a war fund of $50,000, a mon- 'workers in bondage.' I would yank you out of your bondage and prevent There are over 7,000 men on strike. That gives $7 plus a man you wearing the sympathy-seeker's tin-pannikin of a martyr's halo. I cover food, housing, travelling expenses, lawyers' fees for the hundre- would give every man of you a free farm. In Alberta alone are thousands of arrests. I confess the possibilities of graft out of that do not appa- of acres of the best arable land awaiting an owner. No, those are not me, considering the size of some Western pork barrels in politics. immigration advertising figures—I have canoed and ridden and buck-

"Why don't you appeal to the Department of Labor at Ottawa?" boarded over miles of it. In B.C. is twice as much more of unoccupied, The man's look meant that I was soft in the head. unowned land, that can be homesteaded on payment of less than your "The Tories down there would be likely to queer the Tories out her- men used to booze in a single day. I would put your loot game out of wouldn't they? Besides, our head office in Chicago has sent telegram the ring by giving each man something to defend from loot. You to Ottawa! Nothing doing!" haven't the capital to prepare land for occupation; but you men would When I went to Ottawa, I saw those telegrams in the office of the have if they did not booze their wages; and it would be cheaper for the Deputy Minister. His explanation of the fact of "nothing doing" was government to prepare it for your occupation and sell it to your men on the explanation of every case of "nothing doing" in the United States the instalment plan than to fight anarchy with a police club." the curse of federal governments everywhere, "the twilight zone" o

now. We are teaching illegal violence and distrust of our courts as to where local jurisdiction ends and federal jurisdiction begins. If they take to illegal violence, they are stronger than we are. When I saw the Minister of Labor, Mr. Cruthers, he announced his Wrong at the top means riot at the bottom. It won't be unionism in spite of "twilight zone" of visiting every I.W.W. camp in the have to fight but revolution." Are we moving to the day so predicted West. I hope he has. If there were more ministers ready to tackle the Late that night after the camp had been forcibly dispersed and jobs with their sleeves rolled up, there would be no problems of labor constables had gone to bed, the owner of the hotel came and awake, unsolved. me. The constables thought they had cleaned out every man. One escaped with the account books through a back window, hidden in hedge the hurt, the evils in present society. Yet you parlor reformers do woods, and now came to see me. nothing."

"Well," he said, "how about your boasted British justice? I would not do nothing if I were living in Canada. I would waken is a fine sample of your ballot government, a fine education in justice up the selfish indifference of the Canadian public. Am I my brother's 1,500 foreigners. You know this outrage is illegal. We have broken keeper? I would show them they have to be his keeper; or he will be law. The men who made the foolish threats are already in jail. I theirs, and take good care of them, too." men who stood in the way of the construction engine were run over a "And then?" You know the patient sneer of the rip-roaring re-smashed. You know that. You also know that the compressed former, who thinks you are talking all "up in the air" for the purpose pipe that was blown up was not blown up by us, but by the contract of giving him an anaesthetic while you inter him. Just go to sleep and constables on guard there to make a case against us. How do you expect to forget the pain, you know! Pray hard; and never mind playing fair! Look pious; and "eat pie us to restrain our individual camp followers from violence when in a little hot air; and never mind playing fair! Look pious; and "eat pie kind of thing goes on—?" in the sky when you die," as their song expresses it!

"If I were you, I'd cut out the word violence," I said. "You are a "And then, if you think I'd quit there—that is just where I would the whole show, you I. W. W.'s! Neither are the employers the whole begin. I would fight fire with fire! I would go after your followers show! You two sections of society constitute just two-thirds of just as you go after converts—out in the highways and byways with show. The other third is the big public. The section that wins my gloves off. I would undermine you, just as you undermine civiliza- to have the public on its side; and the section that uses violence ation. The planks of your platform are grievances. I would remove every quibbles loses the public. Why don't you fight the thing in the courts plank of them till you had not a leg to stand on. Your great grievance is that you cannot under the present system own all the products of your

The man laughed at the fool question.

"Where do you think we could get the money to fight in the courts labor. All right, I'd give every man jack of you a farm of his own, a

That at once brings up the question—are the I. W. W. strike leaders grub stake in a coal mine, a timber limit where you would own every jot all over the world in it for the "graft?" I would like to think so. of your own labor, and starve if you didn't labor—then if you did not would be a harmless frizzle then! Corruption will cure itself of make good, I'd sweep you into the sea—scum not worth letting live! But own dry rot. No doubt, there are as many Judases among the mon- I would not hit you with a policeman's club. That only makes converts keepers of the I. W. W.'s as among other organizations of mixt- for you. You win by appealing to a grouch. I'd go after a stronger motive. I'd appeal not to the motive for loot but for possession—a sit- of the thing, not much graft can have been worked in B. C. Figu- fast spot on earth. When a man owns something, he becomes a 'vested out! The Western membership is about 100,000. The monthly fee righter' and isn't going to scheme to overturn all ownership. You say time of strike is 50 cents. That gives a war fund of $50,000, a mont- you have 100,000 members on the Pacific Coast. You call yourselves There are over 7,000 men on strike. That gives $7 plus a man 'workers in bondage.' I would yank you out of your bondage and prevent cover food, housing, travelling expenses, lawyers' fees for the hundre- you wearing the sympathy-seeker's tin-pannikin of a martyr's halo. I would give every man of you a free farm. In Alberta alone are thousands of arrests. I confess the possibilities of graft out of that do not app- of acres of the best arable land awaiting an owner. No, those are not me, considering the size of some Western pork barrels in politics. immigration advertising figures—I have canoed and ridden and buck-

"Why don't you appeal to the Department of Labor at Ottawa?" boarded over miles of it. In B.C. is twice as much more of unoccupied,

The man's look meant that I was soft in the head.

"The Tories down there would be likely to queer the Tories out her- unowned land, that can be homesteaded on payment of less than your wouldn't they? Besides, our head office in Chicago has sent telegram men used to booze in a single day. I would put your loot game out of to Ottawa! Nothing doing!" the ring by giving each man something to defend from loot. You haven't the capital to prepare land for occupation; but you men would

When I went to Ottawa, I saw those telegrams in the office of the Deputy Minister. His explanation of the fact of "nothing doing" was have if they did not booze their wages; and it would be cheaper for the government to prepare it for your occupation and sell it to your men on the the explanation of every case of "nothing doing" in the United States— the instalment plan than to fight anarchy with a police club."

He looked at me queerly. "That," he said, "is more dangerous than police. That would empty our benches. We would have no grievance. There would be no I.W.W.; but a selfish public will never sanction it."

"And now I want to ask you one question. If you are so sure that your new industrial system is better than the present system, why don't you try it on some small area before you overturn the whole edifice of the past? Every country in the world is in the throes of industrial evolution or revolution. There is not a country in the world that would not adopt your system if you could prove it better than the present system. Canada has hundreds of thousands of acres where a community of 25,000 could settle down and demonstrate whether it is possible to administer industry collectively—looms, factories, mills, land all owned and operated by the producers, no more work than the production actually needed for each dweller, say seven bushels of wheat per head a year, five barrels of apples, fifty yards of cloth, a short three hour day like the Indian day. I do not believe men will ever work their best industrially without hope of profit. You think they will. If you are not after loot, why don't your people try out the new system, on a small area and prove that it is practicable before you convulse the world by an entire upset?"

"No government would grant us the area to try the experiment."

Personally, though my opinion is of no account, I do not believe that true. Any one of three governments—England, the United States, Canada—would grant the land area to demonstrate whether a Utopia system of industry is possible. It would be cheaper for the MacBride Government to set aside 50,000 acres at $2.50 an acre—the old price for provincial land—than to pay $1,000 a day for constables for six weeks, as much again on jail feed; for this total takes no account of the loss to work during the six weeks idleness of 7,000 men. With the minimum wage at $2.50—the average would be nearer $3—that six weeks strike represented a money loss value to the province of $7,000 \times $2.50 \times 36$ days (though most of the men work seven) or over half a million; and this is only one strike of hundreds convulsing the Pacific Coast.

"Well, you are beaten, aren't you?" I asked another labor leader, as a long line of strikers set out down the track for a hundred mile walk. Boxed in Fraser Canyon with the constable's gun behind them and the police club awaiting them, the prospect was not cheerful.

"Are we beaten?" he answered. "You watch and see! Come back here in a year and see; and I'll bet there isn't a newspaper or magazine in America will dare publish what you will see. What other labor is there in B.C. but shovel stiffs like us, drifters and floaters? There is no white labor on the Pacific Coast but us. You are scared to let the Jap in for military reasons. You are scared of the Hindu for moral reasons; and the Lord knows what you're scared of in the slinky little Chink. All right! Keep your noses so high and mighty in the air! Who is going to build your railroads, and cut your forest, and mine your mines but us? You've got to have us; and you know it; and we know it; and that is just where we have the whip handle. They've beaten us now because we are out of money and the government does what the voters say. We'll have votes in a few years. We go back now; and we do work that will be expensive work for the employer; and in one year when we have funds again, we'll make answer to this rifle game by tying up every wheel and shovel on the Pacific Coast. You think we are confined to the Pacific Coast, do you? Who managed and won the mill strike in Lawrence, and managed and won the strike in Perth Amboy? You can name a railroad yard or factory in Canada where we are not but. When we are in funds, we'll strike again; and we'll strike again; and we'll strike again till it will be cheaper for capital to be administered to us than pay for increasing wages and shorter hours and the loss of strikes. This is but a guerilla skirmish, a scouting fray to what is coming, and coming so soon that your spineless half-way compromisers will scuttle to be in under cover in time."

"The catastrophic movement will go on," predicts a writer in the "London Mail" of the English coal and railroad and dock strikes. "The coal crisis of to-day may pass away; but the movement will gather force from its failures, determination from its defeat till triumph merge in terrorism."

"There is a revolution in the air which will make the French Revolution look like a petty local disturbance," says an investigator at Lawrence. "It is designed to be not only a continental but a world-wide revolution—the great final Social Revolution that will ignore all national boundaries and different forms of government. Its avowed purpose is not to wrest from capital, shorter hours and higher wages or any mere improvements in present industrial conditions, but to wrest from capital all its power and to turn over each great industry to the workingmen of that industry. Its leaders have no fear of the word confiscation. They openly advocate coercion. They despise the term, trade agreement. In a word, the aim is the overthrow of present society."

Am I my brother's keeper, Mr. Canadian? If you are not (and see about it quickly!) he will be your keeper. He will be your keeper of the showing of your own census, on the manipulation of your own voting machine.

Though we could not agree that night after the "run out," the strike leader and I parted the best of friends. Good luck to him! His aim is the far off brotherhood of man! I think his methods the opening of the flood gates of loot and crime. He thinks the methods of the present system are themselves loot and crime. Shall we wave the bloody flag and break each other's heads; or arbitrate?

As we parted, he gave me this pass to the other camps:

Fellow Worker—This is to let you know that bearer is O.K. Give all information.

X. X. X.

I trust I have not violated the confidence imposed by what I have told.

ARTICLE NO. III.

It would be so simple to settle the whole thing with a policeman's bat. Just one short, sharp, word—"comply with our customs and laws; or get out!" and all the labor difficulties that are convulsing the Pacific Coast are to vanish in thin mist, and the sun is to come out from behind the clouds, and the sound of the reaper is to be heard in the land, and prosperity is to reign.

But the trouble with that very simple study-chair theory is that it ignores facts. Would you believe it, I heard a whole group of B.C. legislators propound that remedy, and saw the constables carry it out at rifle point. The facts ignored by this remedy are that in twenty years, perhaps ten, these trouble makers will out vote the Canadian and elect the legislators, who make the laws, with which you, Mr. Canadian, must comply or get out! Already the pressure is forcing some ranch except at a loss, and so left it, and it forced out a mill-man I know; not a capitalist, but a young Easterner who had borrowed $20,000 and came West to try a new industry. In three months, strikes had three times jumped wages $5 a week higher for his mill men. "Good," you say! "The higher the better!" But as I am not dealing with your opinion or mine, I am going to tell you the rest of the story. About one week out of every month, the saw mill had to be shut off for the laborers to recover from a jamboree after pay day. Being a country where everybody is free and equal, why not a jamboree if they wanted it? No why not, except that at the end of the year there was very little of the $20,000 left; to be explicit, not much over a $1,000. I suppose it had been expropriated by what are called the "passive tactics." Anyway, there was little capital left. The strikes had interfered with delivery of contracts to Mexico and China and Japan; and the mill was sold on the bargain counter to a subsidiary of the big trust—the little man being ground to pieces by the upper and nether mill stones of the two big powers of the modern economic world. The men from that sawmill were among the unemployed walking the streets of Vancouver that winter. All very well to say: "Comply with force or get out!" This mill-man both complied and got out. He was now what is colloquially known as "in the hole;" so he borrowed more capital and began afresh. Please look straight at the facts without blinking! This man was one of the first to arrange for and employ Hindu labor in the saw mills on the Pacific Coast!

"Do you like them?" I asked.

"No! They are not equal to a white man; but what was I to do? I was in debt. They had me! I had to face ruin or find a way out——"

"Don't you think the injection of thousands and hundreds of thousands of Hindu in B.C. might bring the same curse here as the South suffers from the Black?"

"Of course I think so; but you tell me what else there is to do!"

"The other fact which this club remedy ignores is—who is going to use the club? Police and soldier are not recruited from office boys; but

"You meet it horny-handed and on the job, spouting the reconstruction of civilization from the bottom of a howl and in defiance" from the ranks of labor; and the new social revolutionists boast that they have secret agents busy undermining the loyalty of the army.

"Young man," advises a leaflet that is given to every new member, "when you are asked to enlist in the army or navy to be used as food for cannon, be sure you look before you leap!"

"The officers get the honor and the men get shot!"

"The officers get three squares a day; the rank and file starve on mouldy hardtack.

"Let those who own the country do the fighting. Put the wealthiest in the front ranks; the middle class next; follow these with judges, lawyers, preachers and politicians! Let the workers remain at home and enjoy what they produce! Follow a declaration of war with an immediate call for a general strike! American capital wants war to kill off the surplus of the unemployed, who are threatening to overthrow the capital system. Do not become hired murderers! Don't join the army or navy!"

Now you can rave over the folly of this declaration to your heart's content. You can prove that every undefended country in the whole record of history has been attacked, overrun and reduced to a slave status. You can prove that there is no such thing as surplus labor in America to-day—that there are more jobs than there are men. The point is that the American Army is finding it almost impossible to keep their army recruited up to official numbers. General Lea, in his book, says that if you deducted officers and skulkers and absentees and padded rolls, there would be found to be fewer soldiers in the army than there are officers. If this propaganda succeed, what becomes of your fine remedy, the policeman's club, the soldier's bayonet? In the Barcelona riots—and many of the agitators on the Pacific Coast are from European countries—in fact, the man who speaks English is the exception—soldiers refused to act; and in the recent riots at Lawrence, the Army and Navy Journal was constrained to refer in veiled words to "sad occurrences," when men who charged the rioters found themselves in such ill odor with their comrades that all camp kit was scattered out on the snow. You may applaud or condemn this spirit among the soldiers—call it mutiny or class loyalty! Your opinion or my opinion does not matter. The fact is—this new form of social revolution renders your club remedy an impossible thing—as kid-glove, study-chair remedies usually are.

Take another look at the incongruous and contradictory facts in the labor situation on the Pacific Coast to-day!

We have an idea that Canada's Industrial Conciliation Act of 1900 is the most perfect labor law in the world. We are told that within a short time of its passage it had accomplished the amicable settlement of 40 out of 42 disputes; but the situation on the Pacific Coast is not one of dispute, but of deadlock. Grant nine hours to-day and a minimum wage of $3, you are to be asked for eight hours to-morrow, and seven the next day, down to a three hours working day, at $4 an hour—one of the street advocates demanded; not for the purpose of reaching an equi-able basis for compromise, but for the purpose of compelling the complete capitulation of one side to the other.

"Eastern Canada thinks that"—I quote a leading authority—"the labor unions are the inspiration of the opposition to Oriental labor. Didn't a council of the labor unions as late as last January go to Ottawa and request the continuance of the exclusion of Oriental labor? Yes, but that was last January; and the hands of the clock move quickly on the Coast.

"We demand wide open doors to all wage workers," declare the I.W.W. "We recognize neither race, color, nor creed;" and in the I.W.W. Hall on Cordova Street, Vancouver, I saw long lists of subscriptions from Hindu workmen to the I.W.W. strike funds.

"Have you no objection to these Asiatic people coming in and cutting your wages?" I asked the spokesman of the I.W.W.'s.

"Not a bit! That day of narrow outlook has gone past in the labor world. We aim to unite the laborers of all nations in one solid arm against capital. Our workers—revolutionists, you would call them—are at work among the Hindu in India. Let them come in, we say! They will make so many more votes to overthrow capital! It isn't labor that opposes the Oriental. It is your smug middle class—your shop keepers and tame, spineless citizen masquerading as the spokesman of labor. They don't want the competition of cheap goods in the market. It cost me $3 to get my watch overhauled up on Granville street. I can get the same work done for $1 down in Chinatown. No fear of the Asiatic ever being allowed on an equality with the half-baked middle class climbers. No—you bet! Let 'em come in! We'll take care of them. We'll take 'em right in our ranks!"

I asked Mr. Pettipiece, editor of the B.C. Federationist, and a great leader of the labor movement on the Pacific Coast—"do you oppose Asiatic labor?"

"As a labor man, I do not," he said. "Let them come in hordes Hindu and Jap and Chinaman! They will swell our ranks! There is no international boundary in the field of labor! That selfish day of laborers cutting each other's throats in the interest of capital is past. The world is our market garden; and if the Hindu comes in and gives the white trouble, all I have to say is that it is only the social garbage of white crime and lust coming back here to plague us for our sins in India."

"Would you like your little daughter to sit in the same class at school as a Hindu or Jap?"

"No, I would not," he answered. "As a father, I don't want the Hindu in here any more than you do as a woman. Let the Asiatics have separate schools. As a citizen, I do not want the Asiatic. You can't assimilate him to our civilization; but this labor movement is no longer provincial. It is a world movement; and labor has found that we might better have the cheap Asiatics come in here and organized into our fighting ranks, than have the cheap products of Asiatic labor come in here and undersell our labor products. These shoes," pointing to a pair of tan, "cost me $6 uptown. They cost only $3 down in Chinatown. It was not labor, but the small shop men pretending to voice labor who put the Jap out of business; for they found the Jap was selling at a half and a third the white price. Chinese goods will come in, if the Chinamen don't. The same of Jap goods. Better let the laborers come in and organize in our ranks under our labor laws! Certainly our labor organizations favor letting down the bars to all labor. The Hindu are not dangerous as laborers, only as neighbors. It was the mill owners brought them here."

"It's this way," declared another labor leader, who fairly chuckled with glee over the embarrassment, which Oriental immigration is causing the country. "Capital thought to bring in cheap Asiatic labor to break us. Then capital found that the Hindu demanded a vote. If he

I. W. W. Strike Bulletin

PUBLISHED BY THE G.T.P. CONSTRUCTION STRIKERS

NO. 6.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., SEPTEMBER 28, 1912.

RECORD BREAKING RAIL-ROAD BUILDING.

In these days of marvelous achievements the building of the west end of the Grand Trunk Pacific must look to the most casual observer to have been carried on in a very desultory fashion indeed. It is now five years since the first steel was turned, but the steel has not yet reached Hazelton, less than 200 miles away. The company has had the advantage

WHAT IS A SCAB?

On the human body today, when the blood is in disorder, there always breaks out what is known as a scab, to show to the human animal that his body is in a poisonous condition. Medical science has used this lighthouse for years to discern diseased humanity. Now the scab on the body is of no use to the bearer of it, nor is it of any use over for expect a

THE STORY OF THE POOR DOG.

Once upon a time there lived on the prairie a little dog, people called him a prairie dog, but no matter what he was called, he lived as all other prairie dogs do in a little home of his own in the ground. No one ever bothered or molested him and he and his family lived happily until one day there came got it he would line up with us. The Jap demanded social recognition. If he didn't get it, he might line up with us. Then capital got scared, and we got wise to the whole game. Let them all come in! They are all ours! But don't you get one point wrong! Get this right! It has to be the whole hog or none! Capital wants cheap labor in now under restrictions, no vote, limited numbers, limited occupations. That won't go! We oppose that to the hilt!"

n into w

Reproduction of a strike bulletin.

From that labor leader's office, I went straight over to the stronghold of what they call capital, to the head offices of two railroads, to the head offices of two big contracting firms, and then spent the afternoon with a mill-owner.

"Are you in favor of admitting Oriental labor?" I asked each. To a man, each answered absolutely "No."

Said a doctor, who for years has been connected with the immigration department: "If Oriental immigration set in here, it would swamp us. If the law let Asiatics in without restraint, B.C. would either secede or throw them into the sea."

When you ask "why?" you are up against a curious conspiracy of silence, a stone wall of "hush," a peeping and a whispering of facts. I confess I don't like catty tread and stealthy tongue. I like the cause, whose step rings out sharp and true, and I like a tongue that doesn't "yes and no" at both ends and lisp delicately in the middle. When I tried to penetrate that stone wall of silence, I got looks which in the West mean: "Are you an Eastern tenderfoot? Have you any savey?" I hadn't any yet; but I was hunting it; and I got it before I left. Said one secret service officer: "If the truth could be made known, the East would understand and shut up; but the truth would be of such a character that no magazine would dare to publish the facts. But we can't speak without authority from the government."

"All right, put a request on the wires to Ottawa for permission to give me facts; and I'll do the same!"

The answer came back from Ottawa—it would be inadvisable to give facts to the public; it was not wise to investigate the matter so thoroughly. Thenceforth, not one word, nor the syllable of a word could I get on Oriental immigration from the government officials.

I hope you see the comical side of that refusal as I did. Here are the people of Canada being asked to sanction legislation on one of the most important immigration problems ever before a country; and in the words of one government blue book, they are being asked to do it, "with a minimum of publicity." They are being asked to go ahead intelligently, both blindfolded and gagged; and if the blind lead the blind, there's a ditch. I'll come back to that refusal and the subterranean facts behind it in my next article. Meantime, you might recall the good old Western cowboy advice about "mocking your shodesty;" with the accent on the shoddy.

"If you shut out Oriental immigration, who is going to do the work of B.C.?" I asked an employer of many men.

"We'll have to develop more slowly; that's all; then get on as best we can."

Another answered: "We do not object to the Asiatic as a worker. It's as a colonist we do not want him. Let him come in to work, but not to remain. Let him come in for forms of labor for which there are no white men, such as fruit picking, market gardening, dairying. Restrict the length of residence and the forms of labor."

As to dodging the question by "developing slowly," will that be possible after Panama opens? If Portland and Seattle and Tacoma have laborers poured in as the steamship companies are preparing to pour them in, and Vancouver hasn't—won't the commerce of half Canada destined for the Western seaboard build up Portland and Seattle to the detriment of Vancouver? As to admitting labor for restricted purposes, why will the Hindu be safe for five years as a neighbor, and not for ten? If you exclude the Hindu and admit the Chinaman, what do you think the Hindu and Jap will say about that? Vancouver must look to Asia for trade expansion—for sale of lumber and flour and coal—as New York looks to Europe. What do you think the effect would be on New York commerce, if New York excluded one nationality of Europeans and not another? And before you take to hitting other nations a bang on their sensitive international nose, you must have a navy and an army to protect your own nose in case they hit back. Fifty years ago it was a safe and harmless occupation to biff Japan on her sensitive bumps, because she hadn't any. To-day it isn't safe unless you want to be hit back; because Japan is to-day just one-all-over-sensitive-bump, with a chip on both shoulders. Yesterday, you could bang old China to wake the dead, and you wouldn't disturb her. To-day you can't. She is already buying Canadian lumber, and promises shortly to buy flour and machinery and furniture. If you think India is asleep, just go and look down the opening of a volcano. So there is your simple way out of difficulty blocked at the very start!

"We'll solve all labor difficulties by a system of profit-sharing," said one employer of large units of labor.

Will you? Are you aware that the new industrial unionism hates and repudiates and fights all and every system of profit-sharing? "We regard the profit-sharing system as a fraudulent delusion solely devised to speed labor up to the limit and rob it by stock inflation to reduce dividends," says an official organ of the I.W.W.

"The working classes have nothing in common with capital," says another declaration of principles. You know that is a lie—that labor and capital must be partners, or society comes to irretrievable smash; but that does not prevent the lie doing the damage of wild fire by fomenting class hatred.

In fact, both sides will tell you lies galore; and both sides have Judas Iscariots in their ranks. A man, supposedly to be loyal to the contractors, came and told me privately that the strikers "were all right in this B.C. game; if I'd go and see the camps where the men were asked to live, I would see that capital was trying to reduce labor to the condition of hogs." Well, I went straight out and saw those camps; and they were much better than camps where I go to summer and work in the wilds almost every year of my life; and the fare was much better. Cooks are paid from $75 to $100 a month. Another man, supposed to be loyal to labor, came and told me that if I could read "the obscene" literature—the way he pronounced the word was fairly juicy—I would cry out to very high heaven over the stench of the evil of this labor propaganda. I went straight down to the I.W.W. hall and asked them to give me not only the "obscenest" thing they had, but to turn me loose in their lockers, so I could pick out a sample of each thing myself. They did; and the very worst thing I could find was a song about "the devil" not being able to stand "the smell of a griddle in hell" and so on, because the last consignment was a non-union lot. And let me set down here, that I don't think lies on both sides, even for campaign purposes, as one man excused it, ever settled a quarrel since time began. When you have cleared the lies away, you will find one of two things: either one side is trying to put over a villainy; or both sides believe the very same thing.

"The poll-tax has not kept the Chinaman out. How about the Chinese vices? Are they a stench to Heaven as the Hindus? I can testify that they certainly are not open; and they certainly are not aggressive; and they certainly do not claim vice as a right; for I went through Chinatown with only a Chinaman as an escort after ten at night; and the vices that I saw were innocent, mild, pallid, compared to the white man's vices." AGNES, 6 FAIR.

They will tell you, too, there are "white slavers" among the agitators, criminals wanted on bad records in Montreal and Austria and Spain. There are. There is not the slightest doubt of it. A man wanted for a crime was recognized spouting his head off about "the rights of labor to the produce of toil." He didn't say anything about his own means of support through the lives of girls sold to vice; but when his aliases were recognized, he decamped; and has not been heard of since. "There was a Judas among the apostles," said a labor man to me, when I asked him about this. There are Judases on the other side, too; for when a sub-contractor up the line began to jeer the labor agitator, the speaker turned and gave a chronological record of that man's life that left nothing untold from teething to the murder of a Swede at his hands in another labor contest. The labor agitator was advocating "doped coffee" for non-union men. Two crimes do not make one right. They only make for anarchy, far as I can see.

There are comical sides to the dispute, too. For years, the B.C. government had only two of a majority; and those two were Socialists, one of whom habitually referred to the British "flag as a rag." The B.C. government handled labor with kid gloves and candy. Presently, the wheels of time turned a trick; and the B.C. government grew to have only two of an opposition. Then, it handled labor with a police bat. Also, one of those two rip-roaring Socialists sold some real estate for $60,000. He didn't stay to divide it. He hied him home for a holiday to the country where 'the flag was a rag.'

"British justice," said an angry mill striker to me, "you call this justice! I refused to leave Nanaimo; and they ran me in for three months, three tiers of men to a cell, with vermin so thick you could not sleep. I went in a Socialist. I came out an anarchist."

He did not like force as an argument. Yet, in my hand I held a leaflet advocating the three hour day; and it stated that if men came to the Dream Country of the New Revolution, who insisted on working more than three hours a day, they should be forcibly returned from the Good Country to the benighted land from whence they came. More force, you see! Society is to be asked to change from one kind of force to another. Will it elect to do so?

"Bloody slave drivers," the men, who employ labor, are called from the soap box platform, because they refuse $3 a day for the minimum wage, "bloody vampires fattening off the slaves of labor." Yet the biggest employers of labor in B.C. to-day were themselves "blanket stiffs" a few years ago, working at $1.25 a day. But these new comers don't know that. They would hardly credit it when I told them how some of our biggest men in Canada had worked up from bare feet in twenty years. One we all respect was splitting rails in the lumber woods at $1 a day. Another was himself a sub-contractor, or station man. Yet another I think of was herding sheep in Scotland barefoot.

Who is to tell the truth to the new comers to Canada? They land friendless, burning with a sense of wrong and oppression in Italy or Austria or Spain. Where are they welcomed, but in the agitator's hall? They are not the type of men to swallow doped platitudes from a sissy-missionary-sort-of-be-gentle preacher. Over the "booze bar" comes most of their information about Canada and Canadian ways. Who is to show them that they have come to a land where there is no oppression? The police bat is about the worst possible teacher.

Over and over, their songs refer to "the hungry workers" seeking a job, and "the master class gloating over the long bread line." Yet you know there is no master class in Canada, that there are more jobs than workers, and that it is the employer who is at his wit's end to find labor. "The trusts have gobbled up all the country's resources," said an agitator to me. Yet you know and I know that however much the trusts have gobbled up, it is only a fraction of what yet remains to be gobbled up by any man alert enough to go in after it. You don't find land and mines and timber by loafing in city streets or spouting from soap boxes. Capital went in after it and got it. Labor can still go in and glut itself with possession to the fill.

And you can't leave the tangled situation alone in B.C.; for it will not leave you alone. Even if you let the future take care of itself and risk B.C.'s supremacy by so doing, the thing will not leave you alone. One day in a hurry, a very prominent mill-man of Vancouver forgot and had some structural stuff carted from the tracks in non-union wagons. The walking delegate arrived hot. Unless that stuff was carted back in so many minutes, every man would be called out on strike.

"It was much simpler for me to give in than fight," related the delinquent. "Boys," I said, "the union says we have to cart that stuff back to the tracks and bring it over in union rigs. The men grinned and put a few pieces on the wagon. Then the foolery of the thing was too much for human nature. They burst out laughing and went back to their work."

Why the Pacific Coast Fights Shy of Oriental Immigration.

ARTICLE NO. I.

THE HINDU.

MAKE no apologies in setting forth both sides of the Oriental dispute in the labor question.

If you think that shutting your eyes to what you don't want to know, and stopping your nostrils to the stench, and gathering your garments up and passing by on the other side—ever settled a difficult question; then I wish you joy of your system of moral sanitation; but don't offer the Pacific Coast any platitudinous advice about admitting Asiatics. Theoretically, the Asiatic should have the same liberty to come and go with us, as we have with him. Yes, I know. Theoretically, also, the colored man should be as clean and upright and free-and-equal and dependable as the white man; but practically—in an anguish that has caused the South blood and tears—practically, he isn't. Your theory does not work out. Neither does it with the Asiatic. That is—it does not work out when you try it close range on the spot, instead of the width of half a continent away.

Canada is being asked to decide and legislate on one of the most vital race problems that ever confronted a nation. She is also being asked to be very lily-handed and lady-like and dainty about it all. You must not ask about facts that aren't—"nice." You must not ask what the Westerner means when he says "that the Asiatic will not affiliate with our civilization." Possibly, it's a matter of white teeth and pigments in the skin and so on—it might hurt some one's feelings. Also, possibly, it isn't. It may be more than skin deep. The Old Book may have had some sense when it warned the Children of Israel about mixing their blood with that of alien races. It may have something to do with the centuries' cesspools of unbridled vice; and that wouldn't be a "nice" subject for women's clubs to discuss: so the women's clubs of the East go on passing fool-resolutions about admitting races of whom they know absolutely nothing.

I may as well say right here—so you can lay this down now and shut the window and get the smelling salts—that I haven't any use for lilled phrases and violet water and scented musk covering the putridity of moral ulcers. I don't want perfume. I want the clean smell of crystal truth.

For centuries, the world wallowed in bad drainage, and then turned up the whites of its eyes, and said "God's will be done," to any old curse or plague that came along. That day is past. We don't shut the lid down on the smell. We clean out the filth, forbid its repetition; and then thank God for the morning air, clean and sweet. Now, you know what is coming. If you don't like it, lay it down and get your smelling salts.

If it isn't the labor unions that keep the Oriental out; who is it, and why?

Do the same conditions apply alike to Hindu, Chinaman and Jap? Why has almost every woman's club on the Pacific passed resolutions against the admission of the Hindu, and almost every woman's club in the East half favored, if it has not passed resolutions for, the admission of the Hindu? I said almost. Why is the consensus of opinion almost parallel among the ministerial associations? Why did the former Minister of Labor in his report say "that a minimum of publicity is desired upon this subject?" How can a people legislate on a problem on which the only light is a "minimum of publicity?" What did the Minister mean when he said, "that the native of India is not a person suited to this country?" If the Hindu "is not a person suited to this country"—climate, soil, moisture, what not—why isn't that fact adequate to keep the Hindu out without any legislation? Italians never go to the North Pole; nor Eskimos to the tropics.

You may ask questions about Hindu immigration till you are black in the face. Unless you go out on the spot yourself, the most you will get for answer is a "hush!" "Be very careful!" "Do not say a word!" Shut down the lid—somebody might sneeze! With that information you are expected to legislate intelligently. Sensible, isn't it? And it would not be so ludicrous if the other side were also going around with the finger to the lip, and a "hush!" but the other side isn't. The Hindu and his advocates are going from one end of Canada to the other clamoring at the top of their voices, not for the privilege, but for the right, of admission to Canada, the right to vote, the right to colonize. At the time that the first 5,000 or 6,000 were dumped on the Pacific Coast, 20,000 more were waiting to take passage, (their leaders had said they would take passage), and 100,000 more waiting to take passage after them, clamoring for the right of admission, the right to vote, the right to colonize. Well—why shouldn't they? But the minute you ask that, you are told "Hush. Be very careful. Something might go off."

South Africa and Australia "hushed" so very hard and were so very careful that after a very extensive experience—150,000 Hindu in one country—they legislated to shut them out altogether. At least, South Africa's educational test amounted to that; and South Africa and Australia are quite as imperial as Canada. Why did they do it? The labor unions were no more behind it in those countries than in British Columbia. In fact, the labor unions are fairly chuckling with glee over the embarrassment of the whole question.

"The Hindus morally cannot fit into our civilization," declared the resolution of one ministerial association. Why didn't they come out manfully and say what they meant by that; so that the East could judge for itself?

Let us state the case of each side plainly. Then the East can judge for itself. These are not your opinions and they are not my opinions. They are the arguments of those advocating the free admission of the Hindu and of those furiously opposing that free admission; and as I said before, you will need your smelling salts.

"Oh, East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet,
Till Earth and Sky stand presently at God's great Judgment Seat;
But there is neither East nor West, border, nor Breed, nor Birth,
When two strong men stand face to face, tho' they come from the ends of the earth!"—Kipling.

It was some five or six years ago the dispute began. British Columbia as usual was at her wits' end for laborers—labor for the mills, labor for the mines, labor for the railroads. India, as usual, was at her wits' end with a plethora of labor—labor at from 3 to 10 and 20 cents a day—laborers—thanks to the centuries' practice of the Rooseveltian theory of birth—starving for the right to live. It doesn't matter very much who acted as the connecting link—the saw mill owners, the canneries, the railroads or the steamships. As far as I could gather—though I am open to correction here—the steamship lines and the saw mill men seemed to be the combined sinners. The sawmills wanted labor, the steamship lines saw a chance to transport laborers at the rate of 20,000 a year, which meant an enormous traffic. The Hindu came tumbling in at the rate of one, two, three, six thousand in a single year; when, presto! British Columbia inert at first, suddenly awakened and threatened to secede or throw the newcomers into the sea!

By interviewing the Imperial Government and the authorities of India, a sort of subterfuge was rigged up in our immigration laws to keep them out. The Hindus had been booking to British Columbia via Hong Kong. The Japs had been coming via Hawaii. By way of killing two birds with one stone, by order in council, the regulation was put through forbidding the admission of immigrants except on continuous passage from the land of their birth. Canada's immigration law also permits great latitude in its interpretation of the amount of money that must be possessed by the incoming settler. Ordinarily, it is $50 for winter, $25 for summer, with a $500 poll tax against the Chinaman. The Hindus were to be required to have $250 on their person. One wonders at the simplicity of a nation that hopes to fence itself in safety behind laws that are such pure subterfuge. For the time being, yes, there is no continuous passage from the land of birth; but what is to hinder such a direct line going into operation any day? What is to hinder an immigration syndicate such as finances the Chinaman, and used to finance the Japanese, financing the Hindu immigrant with an advance loan of $250?

But the Hindus realized that more immigration was not advisable till they had stronger backing of public opinion throughout Canada; and a publicity campaign was begun from Nova Scotia to British Columbia. Churches were addressed, women's missionary societies, women's clubs, men's Canadian clubs. Every variety of argument has been used. Simultaneous with the publicity campaign, legal action was taken; first, to force the Hindu on the resident voters' lists; second, to break down the immigration laws by demanding the entrance of the wives and families of the Hindu now in Canada. Both these cases are at time of writing in the courts; and it may be frankly admitted that while the fight to get on the voters' list will probably be defeated, the attempt to exclude the women and children will fail. It will fail because it is a subterfuge and ought to fail. It has been conducted with a trickery on both sides of which Canada should be ashamed. Either the Hindu is to be admitted to Canada, or he is not. Canada has to decide that; and decide at once. Under constitutional test, the exclusion tactics will not hold water. The steps of this attempted exclusion of the women and children may be given:—

A Hindu deputation understood from the Minister of the Interior last December that the wives and children of the resident Hindus would be admitted. The Hindu deputation may have misunderstood; or the Minister may not have realized exactly what the permission he was granting entailed, but when the two ladies arrived, it at once raised a test case of the immigration laws. One was the wife of the secretary of a mining company, the other the wife of a temple priest. As ladies, they were of course welcome; and their stoppage, an outrage. Imagine it on yourself if you went to India! As a test case to break down Canadian law, their presence at once raised a furore in the courts; and the wires to Ottawa were kept hot. At the very last minute before the sailing of a vessel, legal notice was served for their deportation. Counsel for the Hindu at once made application for habeas corpus. The order for deportation was only served at 4 p.m., when the courts had closed. The Hindu's lawyer went after the judge to his residence and after the immigration agent to his residence with notice of the application. Adjournment the next Monday on a technicality followed; and the steamer proceeded without the women. Subterfuge—all of it! Canada, like South Africa and Australia, must decide on the merits of the case, and not dodge sharp legal corners that give occasion for reproach.

Now for the arguments on both sides:—

We need room for colonization, says the Hindu. Dr. Wilkie, the veteran missionary to India, probably expresses this argument tersely when he says: Let England lose India, and she loses five-sixths of the British Empire. By refusing admission to the Hindu, Canada is endangering English dominion in India. Moral conditions are so low as to make one boil; but give these people a chance; and they will become good as you are; for we are sprung from the same Aryan stock.

British Columbia has immense tracts of arable land. Why not give India's teeming millions a chance on it as colonizers?

There was not so much sedition among the Hindus of British Columbia as among Canadian-born Socialists who spoke of the "flag as a rag."

The vices of the Hindu are no worse than the vices of the low whites.

They are British subjects and have a right to admission. Admission is not a privilege but a right.

How can we expect good morals from three to five thousand men, who are forcibly separated from their wives and children? Admit their wives to prevent deterioration. This argument was used by a Hindu addressing audiences in Toronto.

What right have Canadians to point the finger of reproach at the institution of the child wife, when the age of marriage in one province is twelve years?

Canada's treatment of the Hindu is immoral and intolerable, a twisting of the law passed in the first place to keep out the Japs who came by way of Hawaii.

In the days of the mutiny the Sikh proved his loyalty.

Many of the Canadians now denouncing the Hindu made money selling them real estate in Vancouver; and expropriation is behind the idea of exclusion.

"Imperial unity is threatened by this attack on Sikh homes," in the exclusion of the women.

The Sikhs are particularly adapted to the cultivation of the soil.

The admission of the Hindu would relieve British Columbia's great need for manual laborers.

Canadian missionaries to India are received as friends. Why are the Hindu not received as friends in Canada?

Why should a Sikh not marry a white woman as one did in Vancouver? This question was asked by the official publication of the Sikhs in Vancouver.

If Canada shuts her doors to the Hindu, let the Hindu shut doors to Canadians.

These, remember, are not my arguments. They are the arguments of the people advocating the free admission of people from India to Canada. To these arguments, the Pacific Coast makes answer. Likewise, the answer is not mine.

We know that you as a people need room for colonization; but the question we have to decide is if we admit you as colonists—150,000 of you, as in South Africa—will your presence drive out other colonists, as it was doing in other lands; as the presence of the colored people prevents the coming of colonists to the Southern States? If we have to decide between having you and excluding Canadians, or excluding you and having Canadians—we cannot afford to hesitate in our decision. We must keep our own land for our own people.

Australia and South Africa have excluded the Hindu—at least, South Africa's educational test amounts to that—and that has not imperilled British Dominion in India. Why should it in Canada? The very fact that there are "teeming millions" ready to come is what alarms us. Morals are low, you acknowledge—and these people would be better if they had a chance; but would the chance not cost us too dearly, as the improvement of the blacks has cost the South? We are sorry for you, just as we are sorry for any plague-stricken region; but we do not welcome the plague among us because of that pity.

There may not be as much sedition among the Hindus of British Columbia as among Canadian-born Socialists who rant of the flag as "a bloody rag"; but our Socialistic seditionists have never yet been accused of collecting two million dollars to send home to India to buy rifles for the revolution.

"I think," said a gentleman, who had investigated this rumor, "I think that is an exaggeration, I think the sum was under a million."

All right, put it under a million. Canadian Socialists have never yet collected one dime to buy rifles for a revolution.

"I don't believe the money ever went forward from San Francisco," said another investigator. "I think it was swiped there for graft for these leaders, who are posing as saints in white."

"All right," said another, "why don't you expose them? You have a chain of complete proofs."

"Because the Imperial Government has ordered us to keep quiet."

Remember, these are not my accusations. They are accusations that are in the very air in Vancouver and San Francisco. If they are true, they ought to be proved true. If they are untrue, they ought to be proved untrue; but in view of the shoutings over loyalty, they are a little bit comical. Could the Hindu, who landed in British Columbia destitute a few years ago possibly have had that amount of money among them? At last census, they had property in Vancouver alone to the amount of five or six million dollars worth, most of this held collectively by a few leaders for the whole community.

True, their vices may be no worse than the vices of the low whites; but if our immigration officials find that whites low or high have vices those whites are excluded, be they English, Irish, Scotch, or Greek. For instance, an official in the king's household was dismissed for black-guardism. He was supposed to be coming to Canada. If he succeeded in passing the immigration officers, he did so in disguise; for they were on the look out to exclude him, notwithstanding the fact that he had been an officer in the King's household and was British born.

True, the Hindu are British subjects! but we don't allow British subjects in unless we want them—unless they can give a clean bill of health and morals.

Canada does not regard admission as a right to any race, European, Asian, African. She considers her citizenship a privilege, and reserves to herself the right to extend or not to extend that privilege to whom she may.

That separation from families will excuse base and lewd morals—is a view that Canada will never admit. Her sons go forth unaccompanied by wives or sisters to lumber camps and mines and pioneer shack; and in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred come back clean as they went forth, and manlier. There is the occasional degeneration; but those degenerations are so exceptional as to prove and justify Canada's confidence in good blood. That women should be victims on an altar of lust is an argument that may appeal to the Asiatic—the sentiment all draped in wistaria and lilies, of course; but it isn't an argument that will prove anything in Canada but the advocate's unfitness for citizenship.

What right have Canadians to point the finger of reproach at the institution of the child wife, when the age of marriage in one province is as low as twelve?

And that brings up the whole question of the child wife; and you had better get your smelling salts. Because one province has a marriage age criminally low, does not prove that that province approves of marriages at twelve. In the whole history of that province, marriages at that age have been as rare as the pastime of skinning a man alive, and as far as I know, that province has no law against skinning men alive. It has no such law because that type of crime is unknown;

but can you say that the institution of child marriage is unknown or even a rare crime in India? Is Eastern Canada aware that some of the Hindu wives for whose admission loud outcry is being made in pulpit and women's club are little girls barely eight years of age, whom the husbands have never seen, men of 35 and 40 and 48 asking for the admission of little girls as wives?

Does Eastern Canada realize what child wifehood means? Does she desire that system embodied in her Canadian civilization? We'll suppose as Dr. Wilkie outlines, that 100,000 Hindu colonists come to the vacant arable lands of British Columbia. As the inalienable right of a British subject, the colonist must be allowed to bring in his wife. What if she is a child to whom he was married in her infancy? Waken up, Eastern Canada. You would forbid the child wife system. Hold on! That's exactly what you couldn't do. This colonist being a British subject is to be given a vote. The Hindus are fighting for that now in the courts of British Columbia! How would you abolish the child wife system if their vote outvoted yours? Speak up—says British Columbia. How would you abolish some of the temple practices, if their vote outvoted yours? How would you abolish some crimes not to be named here if their vote outvoted yours? Forget all about that rifle fund. Forget all about labor and millowner and color of pigments. You know now, it is more than skin deep. Just consider these questions, says British Columbia; and it's an even wager that at this stage Down East opens the window for fresh air; or runs away before you can go on.

Oh, yes, we have lots of advice for British Columbia; but woe is us if British Columbia asks us a few straight questions. Go a little deeper into this child wife thing. You don't suppose that the child wife system is a crime just because of the matter of age, do you? Take a look at a few medical figures. Now don't balk; for you have been asking British Columbia to admit this system past her immigration bars.

Thousands, hundreds of thousands of children in India age from 9 to 12 are wives actually living with their husbands; and the husbands are in many cases from 30 to 80 years of age; unions, that Anglo-Saxons for physical reasons regard as criminal.

One-third of all children born of mothers under sixteen years of age die in infancy. Why? Because of tortures to the mother's body compared to which the tortures of the inquisition are merciful. Look at that and say whether you want that system in British Columbia. Under Canadian law, we treat those kinds of crimes to thirty-nine lashes; under American law, to the court of Judge Lynch.

Twenty-five per cent. of the women of India die prematurely because of the physical crimes perpetrated through child marriage; 25 per cent. become invalids from the same cause. Ask a doctor what that means before you pass any resolutions on British Columbia.

Nine million girl wives in India are under fifteen years of age; two million are under eleven.

I asked a British Columbia saw mill owner why the Hindu could not speed up with a Pole or Swede.

"No stamina."

"Why is that?"

"Too many generations of vice; too many generations of birth from immature mothers; no dower of strength from birth."

"But," the advocates of Hindu immigration say, "prohibit child marriage! Bar out child wives! Our climate will modify the Hindu constitution." (It hasn't yet modified the negro). "All this does not apply to the Hindu in B. C.; because many of the Sikhs are married to only one wife."

To bar out child wives sounds easy. How are you to know that they are child wives and not daughters? If there is one thing more than another that has been established in Vancouver, not excepting the very leaders of the Hindu contingent, it is that you cannot believe a Hindu under oath. Of this, examples will be given. Also the British constitution does not allow you to bar out a subject's wife unless she is diseased or vicious. As to the climate argument, that is no reason for Canada accepting as her burden the heritage of another country's century cess-pools of crime. The point is—if you let down the bar to any section of the Hindu, teeming millions will come, will come with a demand to vote. Do you want them?

That Canada's continuous passage law is immoral and intolerable—no one will gainsay. It is more. It is a subterfuge and a joke and a lie. The day that any steamship company sends liners direct, the Hindu can come to Canada.

True, says B. C., the Sikhs proved their loyalty; but was it for their own sake or England's? If British protection were withdrawn from India to-morrow, what would happen? A thousand petty chiefs would fly at each other's throats. "English administration," said a Hindu, addressing the Canadian Club in Vancouver, "has been a most unmitigated blessing." Some of us think that English blessing might omit a few things, as to opium and the compounds; but even with those defects in the balance, English administration has changed rapine and tyranny and injustice and perpetual war to peace and security and comparative justice. The day England fails of that, it will be time enough for the Sikh to claim rights in Canada in return for his simple duty to himself in India.

The idea that expropriation is behind exclusion is an idea that could only be entertained by an Oriental mind. Expropriation is impossible under Canadian law.

Imperial unity is no more threatened in Canada by exclusion than it was threatened in South Africa and Australia.

The Sikhs are adapted to the cultivation of the soil; but the point is—if they come in "teeming millions" to cultivate the soil, would any white race sit down beside them as neighbors?

The need of labor in B. C. would be relieved; but does that balance the fact that white immigration might be stopped?

"But would it?" asks Eastern Canada.

Look at the Southern States—says B. C.—a country of rich fertility and five crops a year! Why does white immigration refuse to go to the South? Why is land there the cheapest in America—cheaper than in B.C.? Because of a black shadow over the land. Do you want a black shadow in Canada?

As to the missionary argument, B. C. can hardly take that seriously. Missionaries do not go to India to colonize. They do not introduce white vices. They go at Canada's expense and give free medical and educational service to India.

"Why should a Sikh not marry a white woman?" There, again, you are up against a side of the subject that is neither violet water nor pink tea; but believe me—it is the vital side of the subject. The answer is—for the very same reason that the South objects to and passes laws against mixed unions among the races. These laws are not the registration of prejudice. They are the registration of terrible lessons in experience. It is not a matter of opinion. It is a matter of fact. When Booker T. Washington dined with President Roosevelt and the South raised great uproar, many people, (myself among them), in the North grieved and wondered. Why should a cultured gentleman and philanthropist, who happened to be black, not dine with the president? The South did not object to Booker T. Washington dining at the White House. What the South feared was the effect of this fact on the lewd mind. Was the fear justified? I had some women friends go to a theatre party in a Southern city the night that the news came out in the papers. There was a great deal of jostling among a noisy crowd of blacks at the door, when the ladies came out. When these women reached home and could see themselves in the light, they found their light dresses and opera cloaks soaked and covered with tobacco wads. That was the lewd man's way of showing that the great colored leader having dined with the great white leader, the great colored mob was as good as the great white mob. For the first time, I understood that rooted Southern prejudice. The same of the Sikh and the Saxon marriage! What is feared is not the marriage of a Sikh who is a well-educated man, to a white woman, who knows what she is doing. What is feared is the effect of that union on the lewd Hindu, the effect on the safety of the average (not cultured) white woman and white girl; and there is no one on the Coast, who has lived next to Asiatics, who does not know what that means in terms of fact that cannot be set down here. Are there two sides to this question also? Have the English not carried vices to India—"social garbage for our own lust and crimes"—as the labor leader put it? Yes—but what is that to Canada? We do not purpose poisoning the new young life of the province for the sake of the English soldier's vices—says B. C.

If Canada shuts her door to the Hindu, let the Hindu shut their door to Canadians. When we begin colonizing your country with "teeming millions"—says B. C.—shut the door! If you shut out our medical missionaries and our educators and our agricultural scientists—is that your loss or ours? We do not fear your educators and financiers and students from India—says B. C. We do not shut them out! We do not fight them when they come in here through perjury, as two of your leaders did. What we do fear, and are determined to shut out are your Asiatic vices; and we grant you a perfect right to shut out any vices which Canadians may carry to India.

You understand, of course, these are not my views. They are the reasons given for the Pacific Coast excluding the Hindu; and even with the arguments before you, there is a great deal untold and untellable.

For instance, some of the leaders talking loudest in the East in the name of the Sikh are not Sikhs at all, and one at least has, under oath, a criminal record in San Francisco.

For instance again, when the coronation festivities were on in England, there was a very peculiar guard kept round the Hindu quarters. It would be well for some of the Eastern women's clubs to enquire why that was; also why the fact was hushed up that two white women of bad character were carried out of that compound dead.

Said a mill owner, one who employs many Hindus, "If the East could understand how some of these penniless leaders grow rich, they would realize that the Hindu has our employment sharks beaten to a frazzle. I take in a new man from one of these leaders. The leader gets $2 or $5 for finding this fellow a job. I have barely got the man broken in, when the leader yanks him off to another job; and sends me a new man, getting, of course, the employment agent fee for both changes."

"But why not let them come out here and work and go back?" asks the East.

Because that is just what the Hindu will not do. When he comes, he fights for the franchise to stay. That is the real meaning behind the fight over Rahim's case, now in the courts.

"They are curious fellows, poor beggars," said a police court official to me. "They have no more conception of what truth means than a dog stealing a bone. We had a Hindu come in here as complainant against another man, with his back hacked to beef steak. We had very nearly sent the defendant up for a long term in the 'pen,' when we got wind that these two fellows had been bitter enemies—old spites—and that there was something queer about the complainant's shanty. We sent out to examine. The fellow had stuck bits of glass all over the inside of his shack walls and then cut his own back to pay an old grudge against the other man. Another fellow rushed in here gesticulating complaint, who was literally soaked in blood. We had had our experience, and so sending for an interpreter, we soused this fellow into a bath tub. Every dab came off and there was not a scratch under."

"You say the Hindu is the negro problem multiplied by ten plus craft," said a life long resident in India to me. "That is hardly correct. The Hindu is different from the negro. He is intellectual and spiritual as well as crafty and sensuous. You will never have trouble with the Hindu, if you keep him in his place——"

"But do you think a democratic country can what you call 'keep a race in its place?' The very genius of our democracy is that we want each individual to come up out of his place to a higher place."

"Then you will learn a hard lesson here in Canada."

What kind of a lesson? Again, let us take facts, not opinions.

A clergyman's wife in Vancouver, full of missionary zeal for India, thought it her duty to accord the Hindu exactly the same treatment as to an American or English immigrant. She took a man as general house servant and treated him with the same genial courtesy she had treated all other help in her home. You know what is coming—don't you? The man mistook it for evil; or else failed to subdue the crimes of the centuries in his own blood. Had he not come from a land where a woman more or less did not matter, and hundreds of thousands of little girls are yearly sacrificed on the altars of Moloch? I need not give details. As a matter of fact, there are none. Asiatic ideas about women collided violently with facts which any Canadian takes for granted and does not talk about! No Anglo-Saxon (thank God) is too ladylike not to have a bit of the warrior woman left in her blood. The Hindu was thrown out of that house. Then the woman reasoned with the blind persistence peculiar to any conscientious good woman, who always puts theory in place of fact! There are blackguards in every race. There are scoundrels among Englishmen in India. Why should she allow one criminal among the Hindu to prejudice her against this whole people? And she at once took another Hindu man servant in the house. This time, she kept him in the kitchen and garden. Within a month, the same thing happened with a little daughter. This Hindu also went out on his head. No more were employed in that house. That woman's husband was one of the Pacific Coast clergymen who passed the resolution "that the Hindus would not affiliate with our Canadian civilization."

Personally, I think that resolution would have been a great deal more enlightening to the average Easterner if the ministerial association had plainly called a spade a spade.

ARTICLE NO. II.

THE REMEDY.

THE question of Chinese and Japanese immigration is entirely distinct from the Hindu.

"The Chinaman does not want to colonize. He does not want to vote. He wants only to earn his money on the Pacific Coast and hoard it and go home to China with it. The fact that he does not want to remain in the country, but comes only to work and go back has always been used as an argument against him. Neither does he consider himself your equal. Nor does he want to marry your daughter, nor have you consider him a prince of the royal blood in disguise—a pose in which the little Jap is as great an adept as the English cockney who drops enough "h's" to build a monument, all the while he is telling you of his royal blue blood. If you mistake the Chinaman for a prince in disguise, the results will be just what they were with a poor girl in New York four or five years ago. The results will be just what they always are when you mistake a mongrel for a thoroughbred.

"All the same, dismiss the idea from your mind that labor is behind the opposition to Chinese immigration! Five years ago, when Oriental labor came tumbling into B. C. at the rate of 12,000 in a single year—when the Chinese alone had come to number 15 or 16,000 in B. C.—labor was alarmed; but a twofold change has taken place since that time. First, labor has found that it can better control the Chinaman by letting him enter Canada, than by keeping him in China and letting the product of cheap labor come in. Second, the Chinaman has demonstrated his solidarity as a unit in the labor war. If he comes, he will not foregather with capital. That is certain! He will affiliate with the unions for higher wages.

"If the Chinaman comes in here lowering the price of goods and the price of labor," said the agitator a few years ago, "we'll put a poll tax of $500 on, and make him pay for his profit." The poll tax of $500 was put on every Chinaman coming into Canada; and, presto, do you think John Chinaman pays it? Guess again! It is a way that unjust laws have of coming back as a boomerang. The Chinaman doesn't pay it! You pay it, Mr. Canadian Householder; for no sooner was the poll tax imposed than up went wages for household servant and laundryman and gardener, from $10 and $15 a month to $40 and $45 and $50 a month. The Italian boss system came in vogue, when the rich Chinaman who paid the entrance tax for his "slaves" farmed out the labor at a profit to himself. The system was really one of indentured slavery till the immigration authorities went after it. Then, Chinese Benevolent Associations were formed. Up went wages automatically. The cook would no longer do the work of the gardener. When the boy you hired at $25 had learned his job, he suddenly disappeared one morning. His substitute explains he has had to go away, he is sick, any excuse; with delightful lapses of English when you ask questions. You find out that your John has taken a job at $40 a month, and you are breaking in a new green hand for the Chinese Benevolent Association to send up to a higher job. If you kick against the trick, you may kick! There are more jobs than men. That's the way you pay the $500 poll tax; funny isn't it; or it would be funny if the average white householder did not find it $500 more than the average income of $500 can spare? So the labor leaders chuckle at this subterfuge, as they chuckle at the "continuous" passage law.

"For a time, the indentured slavery system worked almost criminally; for if the newcomer, ignorant of the law and the language got wise to the fact that his boss was doing what was illegal under Canadian law, and attempted to jump his serfdom, he was liable—as one of them expressed it—"to be found missing." It would be reported that he had suicided. Among people who did not speak English, naturally, no details would be given. It seems almost unbelievable, that in a country wrestling with the whole Asiatic problem the fact has to be set down that the government has no interpreter among the Chinese, who is not a Chinaman, no interpreter among the Japanese who is not a Jap. As it chanced, the government happens to have two reliable foreigners as interpreters; but they are foreigners.

Said Dr. Munro, one of the medical staff of the Immigration Department: "Even in complicated international negotiations, where each country is jockeying to protect its rights, Canada has to depend on representatives of China or Japan to translate state documents and retransmit state messages. Here we are on the verge of great commercial intercourse with two of the richest countries in Asia, countries that are just awakening from the century's sleep, countries that will need our flour and our wheat and our lumber and our machinery; and we literally have not a diplomatic body in Canada to speak either Chinese or Japanese. I'll tell you what a lot of us would like to see done—what the Southern States are doing with the Latin-Spanish of South America—have a staff of translators for our chambers of commerce and boards of trade, or price files, and lists of markets, etc. How could this be brought about? Let Japan and China send yearly, say twenty students to study international law and English with us. Let us send to China and Japan yearly twenty of our post-graduate students to be trained up into a diplomatic body for our various boards of trade, to forward international trade and help the two countries to understand each other. (It may be said here that the United States are now doing this in agriculture, three or four men constantly scouring China and Japan for ideas, plants, seeds, methods, to be tried in America).

"When trouble arose over Oriental immigration a few years ago," continued Dr. Munro, "I can tell you that it was a serious matter that we had to have the translating of our state documents done at that time by representatives of the very nations we were contesting."

Unless I am misinformed, one of the men who did the translating at that time is one of the Orientals who has since "suicided," and the reason for that suicide you might as well try to fathom as to follow the windings of a ferret in the dark. Certain royal clans of Japan will suicide on order from their government for the good of their country.

"The trouble with these foolish raids on Chinatown for gambling," said an educated Chinaman to me, "is that the city police have no secret service among the Chinese; and they never raid the resort that needs most to be cleaned out. They raid some little joint where the Chinese boys are playing fan-tan for ten cents, when they do not raid uptown gambling hells where white men play for hundreds of dollars. If the police employed Chinese secret service, they could clean out every vice resort in a week. Except in the segregated district, which is white, there would not be any vice. They need Chinese police, or men who speak Chinese; and there would be no Chinese vice left in this town."

To go back to the matter of the poll tax and the system of indentured slavery, the bosses mapped out every part of the city and province in wage areas. Here, no wages under $25, to which green hands were sent; here, a better quarter, no wages under $40; and so on up as high as $60 for mill work and camp cooking. About this time, riots turned the search light on all matters Oriental; and the boss system merged into straight industrial unionism. You still go to a boss to get your gangs of workmen; but the boss is secretary of a benevolent association; and if he takes any higher toll than an employment agent's commission, the immigration department has never been able to detect it. "I have no hesitation in saying," declared an immigration official, "that for four years there has not been a case of boss slavery that could be proved in the courts. There has not been a case that could be proved in the courts of women and children being brought in for evil purposes. Only merchants' wives, students, and that class can come in. The other day, an old fellow tried to bring a young woman in. We suspected he had left an old wife in China; but we could not prove it; so we charged him $500 for the entrance of this one and had them married on the spot. Whenever there is the slightest doubt about their being married, we take no chances, charge them $500 and have the knot tied right here and now. Then the man has to treat the woman as a wife and support her; or she can sue him; and we can punish and deport him. There is no more of little girls being brought in to be sold for slavery and worse."

All the same, some evils of the boss system still exist. The boss system taught the Chinaman organization; and to-day, even with your higher wages, your $45 a month cook will do no gardening. You ask him why. "They will cut his throat," he tells you; and if he goes out to mow the lawn, he is soon surrounded by fellow countrymen who hoot and jeer him.

"Would they cut his throat?" I asked another Chinaman.

"No; but maybe, the benevolent association or his tong fine him."

So you see why labor no longer fears the Chinaman and welcomes him to industrial unionism, a revolution in the attitude of labor which has taken place in the past year. Make a note of these facts.

The poll tax has trebled expenses for the householder.

The poll tax has created industrial unionism among the Chinese.

The poll tax has not kept the Chinaman out.

How about the Chinese vices? Are they a stench to Heaven as the Hindu's? I can testify that they certainly are not open; and they certainly are not aggressive; and they certainly do not claim vice as a right; for I went through Chinatown with only a Chinaman as an escort, (not through "underground dens," as one paper reported it), after ten at night; and the vices that I saw were innocent, mild, pallid, compared to the white man vices of Little Italy, New York, or Upper Broadway. We must have visited in all a dozen gambling joints, two or three midnight restaurants, half a dozen opium places and two theatres; and the only thing that could be remotely constructed into disrespect was the amazement on one drunken white face on the street that a white woman could be going through Chinatown with a Chinaman. Instead of playing for $10 and $100, as white men and women gamble uptown, the Chinese boys were huddling intently over dice boxes, or playing fan-tan with fevered zeal for ten cents. Instead of drinking absinthe, one or two sat smoking heavily, with the abstracted stare of the opium victim. In the midnight restaurants, some drunken sailors sat tipsily eating chop suey. Goldsmiths were plying their fine craftsmanship. Presses were turning out dailies with the news of the Chinese revolution. Grocery stores, theatres, markets, all were open; for Chinatown never sleeps.

"Not so many Chinamen want to come to Canada now the progress party has won in China," said my guide. "We sent funds home for the Revolution. Now we want to go home."

"Then you do not think the Chinese will want to colonize in Canada?"

"No, not now," he said. "A new day is coming to us in China. We can prosper in our own country now without being robbed. This man was himself the editor and proprietor of a progressive paper in Vancouver. In the theatres, Chinese boys, painted with a depth and finish that would have done credit to a flour barrel and left something to spare—bobbled and bowed and sang songs and simulated women actors to an audience composed altogether of men.

"How much do those men earn a week?"

"Ten to fourteen dollars if they are good singers."

Of open vice, such as you can see flaunting law and even decency on the streets of New York, "cadets" and "pimps" and "barkers," or of such vice as you can see in two infamous all-night white restaurants in Vancouver—there was not a trace. Yet not so long ago, a foolish young white woman was taken from Chinatown more dead than alive—lured by curiosity, drugged, then secret passageways, and saved from unknown death purely by chance—and the very week that I went through Chinatown, a white official told me that he had seen two young white girls come from an opium joint so intoxicated they could not walk.

"Why can't that sort of thing be put everlastingly down?" I asked a Chinaman. "Don't you realize that if you could put this sort of thing down, there would be no objection to your coming to this country without a tax?"

"It can be put down. It can be put down easily," he declared; "but your police do not try. They raid a lot of boys gambling for 10 cents, and leave the criminal vices untouched. If they would take our secret service men among them, they could stamp out vice in one week."

And he spoke true; for there is one thing always stronger than vice; and that is fear. "Put the fear of the Lord in with the cat or the bat, and it stays," an old Westerner I knew used to say.

In the Jap are combined all the worst and all the best qualities of Hindu and Chinaman. The Jap is as good a worker as the Chinaman, and as unreliable as the Hindu. His country's progress, his country's pride, his country's ambition are in his blood; and he expects you to treat him as a prince in disguise. Also, you never know whether he is colonist or government spy. The planters of Hawaii thought they were getting workers; and they found they had 60,000 former soldiers of the Mikado's army. About that time, the Japanese of Hawaii were supplanted by the Portuguese; and the Japanese came tumbling into Canada—8,000 a year.

Also, don't forget it; never forget it for one instant—Japan must have room to expand. Japan to hold her ascendancy in Asia must dominate the Pacific; and before she can dominate the Pacific must meet and overcome two powers—England and the United States. There are comical aspects even to the serious phase of the Japanese problem. When the coolie workers came tumbling into B. C., in 1907, the law required that each immigrant have $25 on his person. The immigration company that brought them in had an agent on board one vessel with 1,500 men to hand over a loan of $25 to each just as they landed; but the agent naturally hadn't the centipede's multitudinous legs and arms to get ashore and grab his charges before they scuttled without returning the $25; and the agent could not complain of the $25 loss, (in all $25,000), for his action was illegal; and the Jappies scampered as they landed.

The riots of that year—Canada knows. What Canada does not know is that if the Dominion had not been a part of Great Britain at that time, Japan would not so readily have consented to restricting passports for emigrants to Canada; and "the continuous" passage law bars out those from Hawaii. Japan takes no special stock in her coolie laborer. He is but a pawn in the world-empire game she is playing. What Japan cares for and what she said at the time of those negotiations was—that she did not want the badge of inferiority placed on her people.

There is no doubt that white labor opposed the Japanese at that period. Up at Atlin, some Japanese non-union men had been taken in to work. The white laborers collected money, gave it to them, told the Japs "it was not a good country to live in," and sent them across the ice. At one big mine, some Japs had arrived to clear the saw-off. The whites insisted that the Japs should do only the dangerous dynamite work at $2.50 a day. The whites got $5 a day for the same work. Later in the season, a doctor was called up to the Jap camp. Thirty-five or forty of the men were ill of stomach trouble with all the symptoms of poisoning. Neither was that a "good country to live in." The Japs didn't stay.

Now ask yourself how long Japan will tolerate that status for her people in Canada; how long England would tolerate that status for her people in Japan. Then you know why though B. C. may appreciate the Jap as a worker, she fears him politically. Why she also fears him socially—need not be given here. She does not fear the student class. She does not fear the merchant class; but she does fear the coolie class masking as princes in disguise; and she fears them for the same reason she fears the same class of Hindu or colored man.

We feel secure that Japanese immigration is limited to 500 a year. It is not so limited by treaty. It is only so limited by the courtesy of Japan. You read the treaty; and you will see that—the beautiful result of having no diplomats understanding the Japanese language among ourselves. Japan will never go to war over her coolie laborers. She has no taint of what we proudly call democracy; no taint of individualism. Every individual in Japan exists for the good of the Empire; but if ever the Empire wanted an excuse for war, could she fail to find it in that limitation by courtesy? That's why—though B. C. needs labor, needs it desperately, she hesitates about throwing open her doors to the little Japs.

And now where are we as to the great need of labor in B. C.?

The Pacific Province must have labor, or see the progress that should be hers go to Washington and Oregon and California. There is practically no white Canadian labor to be had for love or money in B. C. to-day.

"Well, then," says the fruit growers, "let the Chinese who don't want to colonize or to stay, in for a limited time for limited occupations."

"Do you think we will stand that discrimination against British subjects?" demand the Hindu.

"We do not care whether you stand it or not," says B. C. "You have to stand the educational test in South Africa."

"Would B. C. welcome Oriental labor if it could get it without Oriental vices?" I asked. "It seems to me with commerce opening up with Asia, you can ill afford to biff the three biggest nations on the nose."

"You pass strict enough laws against Oriental vices, against sedition and blackmail and secret tongs and traffic in lust," said one thoroughly conversant with the situation, "and you erect a ten barred gate."

Let me repeat—these are not my views. They are the views of those out on the spot up against the real thing, where an ounce of fact is worth a ton of platitudinous theory; where one grain of common sense is worth a bushel of ideals.

And what about the I. W. W.'s? Are they to be barred out, too? Shall we run them out with the policeman's bat and the constable's gun; or—is there no middle way? Have we met them with help or a club? Have we tried to make each man a vested righter, instead of a bomb-fighter? Have we taught them that the flag is not a rag, but an emblem of enfolding justice, to them as to capital? I want you to nail down in your memory one point—the I. W. W.'s have only arisen to power in the United States since the court began granting injunctions to capital against labor, and refusing injunctions to labor against capital. Can we in Canada stop the perjuries and the forgeries and the ballot thefts and the inside loot ring? Or shall we see our civilization too, ground to pieces between the upper and nether millstones of legaliz loot and lawless riot?

AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER? That is the whole pith of the labor question in Canada to-day.